began

In the beginning it was an opportunity for students to publish their writings, stories, poems, and dreams. As time went on, the Zephyrus evolved into a book that captured the highlights, activities, and history of an Astoria high school year. What started as a collection of mostly text with very few illustrations thrown in, grew into pictorials of the way we looked, the things we did, and the lives that we lead. Looking back, we, the staff of this anniversary edition, were able to see not only the changing times, but the traditions that we still hold fast to today. It was an exciting adventure putting this book together as it revealed a lot not only about this year, but also our parents, grand parents, and in some cases, our great grandparents.

Homecoming through the years

The first Homecoming was in 1951. Since then many changes have occurred. The only thing that has remained constant is a young lady becoming the queen of the Homecoming dance. One of the first changes was Homecoming going from just a dance, to a week of activities plus a dance at the end of the week. Some activities that were done in the past years are no longer appearing during the Homecoming week. Some of these activities include: The noise parade, bonfire, and class floats. These were replaced with the Olympics. The Olympics are a time for the classes to join together for a little friendly competition. Not only have the activities been changed, but the clothing styles have changed too. Looking from year to year noticeable changes can be seen. Eventually what is new today will be old tomorrow.

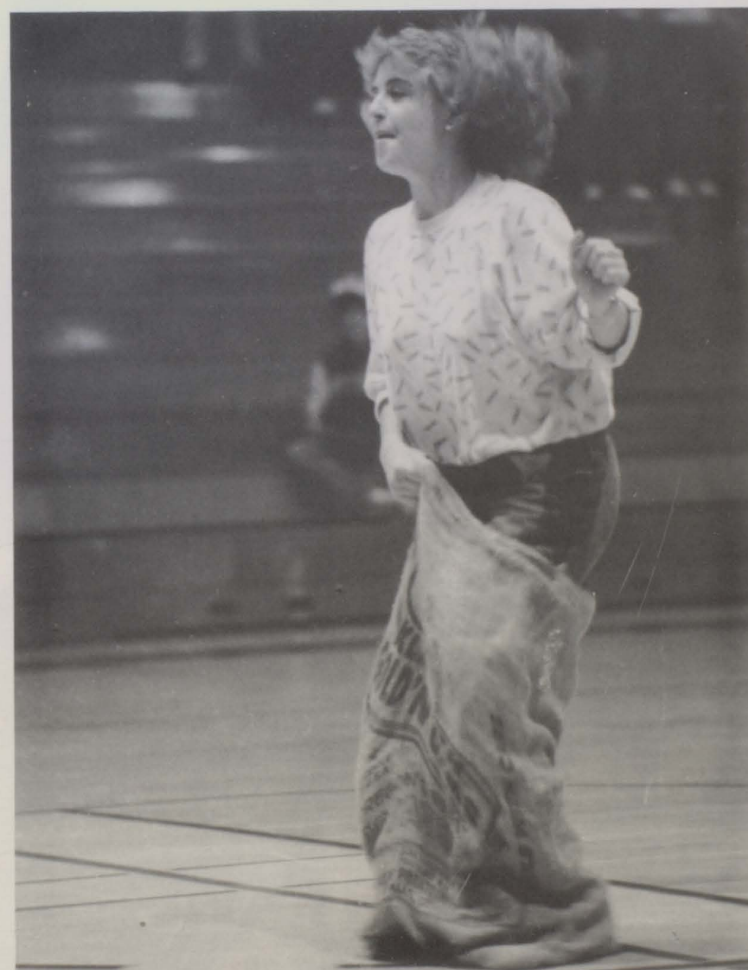

The parade of floats through downtown used to be a main part of Homecoming. Each class designed and built one to take part in the parade. This float captured second place with the theme "Around the World with Music".

During the 1985 homecoming pep assembly the cheerleaders entertain the excited crowd with their thoughtful costumes, and dance.

At a annual Homecoming pep assembly in 1973 a group of seniors pile on top of each other to form what seems to be a pyramid. This would have been one of the many olympic events done during the assembly.

Following an old tradition, many students gather around a huge bonfire before the Homecoming Football game. The bonfire was held to bring the spirit of the Fighting Fisherman to an energizing high. Due to regulations, the last bonfire was held during the 94-95 school year.

The much awaited evening of dancing finally arrived allowing all the couples to prove their Homecoming would be the best in its history.

Homecoming has had many different clothing styles. This picture show the 1972 dance where the style was short skirts, and bell bottoms.

With a reputation for bruises, scars, cuts, and painful concussions, Fishermen football has evolved into a unique and well respected game. Through the years, football has gone from leather helmets and shoulder pads in 1928 to plastic gear for their protection. The cases of injuries has lessened, but even today there is still a level of danger when a player steps on the field. With this risk in mind, players have learned to over-come the consequences of the competition, and proceed on.

With four known league championships and hundreds of all-league athletes, the Fighting Fishermen have given players confidence and maturity that have helped them later in life. In some cases, AHS athletes have been given sports scholarships that helped them through college.

While the injuries continue, Fishermen athletes are still aware that they may get hurt. But they do it anyway and in the long run, most are glad they did.

The love of the game is one that will never die and while today's athletes play with pride, past ones rest assured that the Fishermen spirit of excellence will live on forever.

TEACHERS THROUGH 1907-1997

thank you...

In the past century, hundreds of teachers have passed through the hallways of Astoria High School. Some stay for decades, others stay for only months.

But no matter how long they are here, or what they decide to do, all of the AHS teachers have had an impact in one way or another. This is our tribute to them. So when you take this stroll down memory lane, try to remember the impact your teachers had on you.

It was the best of times, it was the worst of times.

When writer Ernest Hemingway penned this famous sentence, he must have been thinking about high school.

We've been told by the elders that these days will be remembered all our lives. Maybe it's because of the friendships that we have made. Possibly it's because of the things that we learned in class. Definitely it's not because of the stress of completing all of the graduation requirements. We tend to push the unpleasant memories out of our minds.

If you ask the average graduate walking the street what they remember about high school, the answers will vary. We heard about loopers, keggers, being a freshman, SAT's, senior projects, learning which way a jock strap goes on, who's driving what, first MIP's, team highlights, favorite teachers, homecoming week, dances, funny incidents, and of course, graduation,

What is it that makes us remember these days?

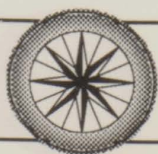

High School

Although it has never been proven by researchers yet, our scientific sources have found that a large part of memory brain cells are linked to our hormones. This is why, at the tender age of 14 and 15, when our hormones are multiplying at a speed that will make any math teacher go nuts, that we have so many memories of high school. The hormones and memory unity theory. We can't help it. We have to carry these memories around with us all of our lives. Sigh.

To make the teachers feel a little better, many of the memories that some students have of high school are the only memories they have. Not to say that they can't remember things from their earlier childhoods, but that they haven't really had to use their brain much since high school. Some of them reached their brains fullest potential at about the age of 17 so they haven't added much since then. The full brain maximum input theory.

While most of the school days were spent in class, it wasn't these times that made the lasting impression. More likely it was the friends you joked around with in the hall or the Football games. Whether or not the team lost didn't matter, it was a time to get away from home and enjoy your free time.

For all of us that survived the high school years, it will always be a period of our lives that we will use as a marker of time that no matter how much we would like, it won't go away.

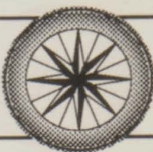

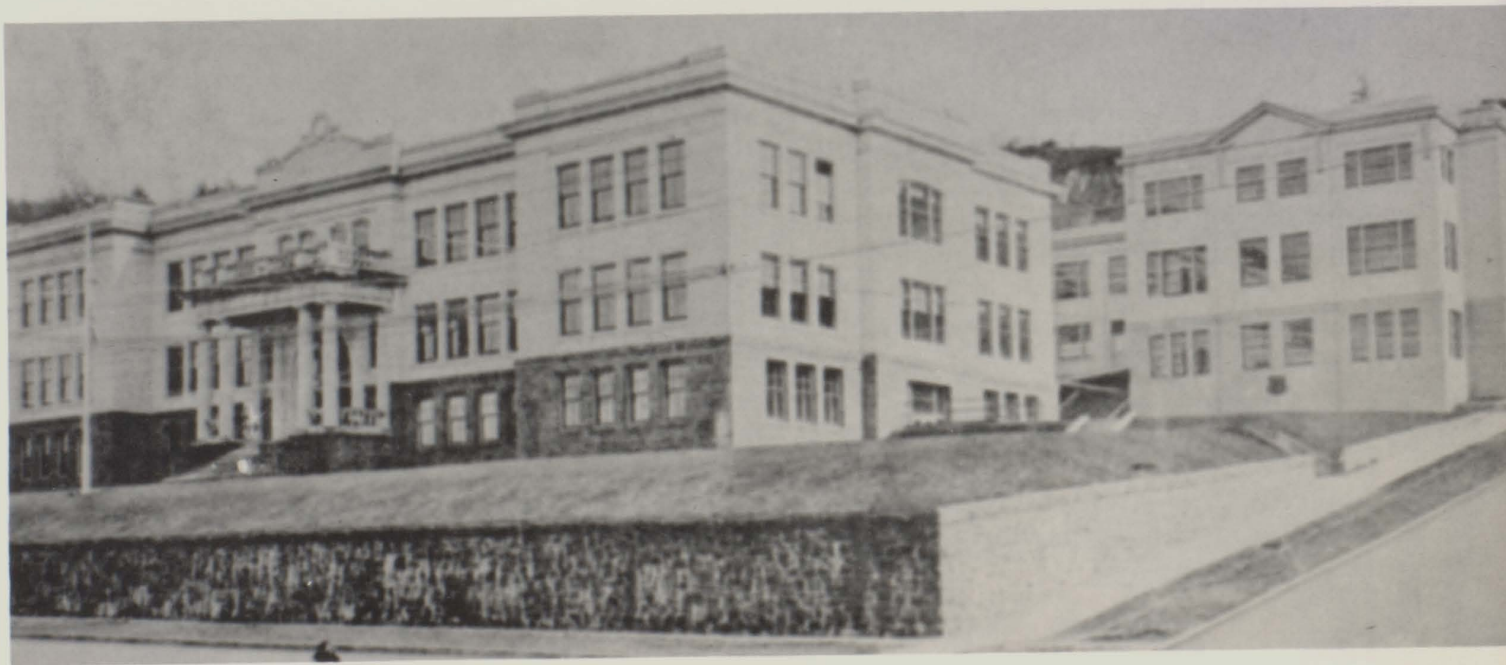

Along with the normal cheerleaders, Astoria also had the Hi-Knights. They were today's equivalent of the pep band and attended all of the sporting events in which Astoria participated.

Those were some good years...

The year was 1956. The graduating class consisted of 130 students, and the principal was Ralph Lind. It was also the last year that Astoria High School was located at 16th and Jerome. Our school has been located at 1001 West Marine Drive for only forty years, the graduating class of 1957 being the first to graduate from the new building.

From 1889 to 1911, McClure was used as the high school, with the exception of 1910 when the building now used by Clatsop Community College was used. Then, from 1911 to 1956, the school was located at 16th and Jerome. The school was moved to its current location because the student body began to outgrow the building at 16th and Jerome.

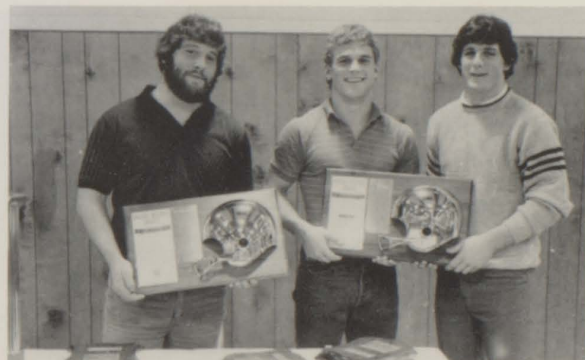

Ranging from nine in 1922 to twenty-six in 1997, being on the Zephyrus staff has become increasingly popular among students.

Being just one of the fifteen people on the Zephyrus staff, Paula Beyer seemed quite content with her position as staff editor.

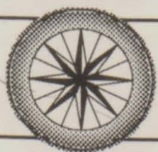

Ignoring her lunch but working feverishly to complete her feature, Jena Parson was just one of many people on the Zephyrus staff in 1988.

Winning the best lineman award was easy for Bruce Blair while Craig Nelson and Andy Westberg were happy to share their award for best offensive backs.

Cheesy smiles and light hearts are abundant on the Groofer buses, as displayed by Lori Ann Thorsness as one of her friends cracks a joke.

Being crowned Senior Homecoming Queen was the highlight of Barbara Timmerman's last year at Astoria High School.

The varsity rally fires up the crowd during a pep assembly. They were Debbie Nelson, Darrylene Bergerson, and Suzi Thompson.

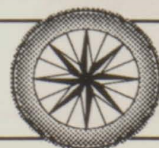

Sarah Wagberg, Sandi Hill, and Karen Peterson show off their new rally uniforms.

Judy Simonson puts on her happy face because she was voted rally queen of the 1956 team.

Freshmen Sonja Madsen, Kera Erickson, and Lisa Hendriksen get funky at a pep assembly.

The booster boys show off their new, flashy gear. During the early 60's the booster boys raised money for athletics.

Even though the wind is soaking through her nylons, Jordan Hauke keeps on grinning.

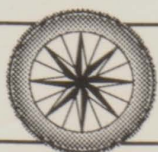

A SPIRITED HISTORY

Although the first year of rally is difficult to actually determine, as far as we can trace from old editions of the Zephyrus the first year was sometime around 1948. That was the first year that the girls were actually called the rally team.

Before this the girls who wanted to participate in supporting the athletic teams would join the pepsters. They were formed in 1928. Their goal was to get the school motivated, and to raise money for athletic teams.

I myself as a player believe that rally is an important part of athletics. They help you feel comfortable when you are playing in front of a large crowd. No matter what the case is, they cheer for you at all times.

The work and dedication it takes to become part of the rally squad is not an easy task. They spend long hours nearly everyday practicing their cheers to perfection, but their hard work goes unnoticed by most people.

1990's

Remember

Looking back at the 1996-1997 school year, we realize that there were many things that captured our attention. Some of these things were controversial, others inspired us in different ways. These pages contain a few of the most memorable ones, and years from now, will help us to recollect the year that was.

Shannon Lucid set the women's record for most consecutive days in orbit. The 53 year-old veteran became America's most experienced astronaut, spending 188 days in the Milky Way...

Jewel Kilcher became America's hottest new musician with her acoustic debut album, "Pieces of You." She created a brand new pop style that helped her climb to the top of the charts...

President Bill Clinton campaigned his way to another four years at the White House, claiming a strong economy and a lower crime rate...

Bob Dole retired his seat as the Speaker of the House to devote full time and energy in his bid for president. The 73 year-old Kansas man poised a dirty campaign, attacking Clinton's character and ethics, and lost the race by an immeasurable number of votes...

Saddam Hussein interrupted President Clinton's campaign by sending Iraqi troops in the Kurdish Enclave, forcing U.S. leaders to fight back for the first time in three years...

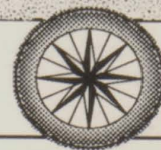

TWA Flight 800 suspiciously exploded in midair, sending it head first into a mass of swampland, killing all 230 people on board. Even though some suspected foreign terrorism, the cause of the explosion was never found...

Hong Kong was on the brink of change as Great Britain's lease of ownership expired on July 1, 1997, making China the brand new owner...

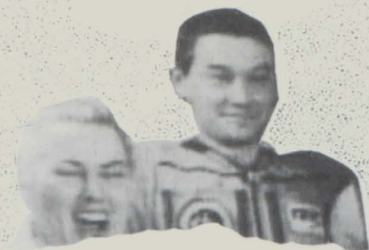

The New York Yankees became baseball's world champions after beating the Atlanta Braves in the World Series.

The 1996 Summer Olympics held in Atlanta captured the world for two weeks. Michael Johnson won a gold medal in the 200 meter race and then achieved another for the 400 meter only hours later. Unfortunately, Johnson suffered from food poisoning for the rest of his scheduled events...

Olympic gymnast Kerri Strug became America's newest hero on July 21 by competing on a sprained ankle, leading the U.S. Women's Gymnastics Team to a gold medal victory.

Heaven's Gate, a religious cult from southern California made news in March when 39 of the strongest believers covered themselves with purple cloth and ate a homemade poisonous pudding. They believed that an alien ship following in Hale-Bopp's trail would escort them to Heaven, if they followed the correct procedure...

Homecoming

Once upon a time on the week of September 7 -11 at Astoria High School the school was a place for fun and excitement.

Although it was a shortened week because of an state wide in-service nothing was missed or left out. Arriving to school on Monday it was obvious that the Homecoming festivities had begun. Each class had a section to decorate in the classroom halls, and did it with lots of spirit, class unity, and a great amount of creativity. That theme carried out through the day as each class was unified in clothing, olympics, and coronation for class prince and princesses. The coronation was held in the gym which gave a different feel from past years, and turned out to be very successful. Representing the Freshmen class were Tyler Olson and Erika Olsen, Sophomore class: Erick Neussl and Katie LeBack, Junior class: Jeremy Alola and Keysa Hale, and the Senior class: William Middleton and Angela Miles, Josh Blomquist and Chrissy Middleton, and Brad Johnson and Amy Patching. The class olympics followed the court presentation with fun and unique activities with lots of class involvement. In the evening the boys battled in the annual Meatball Volleyball with the Sophomore boys coming up with the victory. On Tuesday the students mirrored each other for "Twin Day". That night the girls transformed themselves into mean, tough, football players for the Powder Puff game. Although the effort was good there was no stopping the Senior girls from finishing of their four year sweep by beating the Juniors, and winning the event by points. The pep assembly was held on Wednesday to recognize the volleyball and football players, and to have a little fun before the big games. Despite the efforts of the assembly both teams were unsuccessful in getting the win, but half-time at the football game made the situation lighter when the 1996 Homecoming Court was introduced and the King and Queen were announced. The car of Josh Blomquist and Chrissy Middleton held the winning, purple balloons. Finally the long awaited dance had arrived. With everyone looking their best and having a great time, it was a perfect ending to a fun week, and they all lived happily ever after.

The 1997 Senior class poses together for the very last time this year's Homecoming dance.

Once again the crowd threw up their arms and yelled, 4-M-G-A along with the 70's disco song that is played traditionally.

Showing they're having a great time, Freshmen Tyler Gustafson, and Alex Valencia smile during their first dance of the year.

Taking advantage of the slow music, the couples embrace for a dance together.

Varsity cheerleaders, Angie Hunsaker, Adrienne Mund, Holly Stone, Andrea Mazzarella, and Laura Johnson show some impressive leg.

Quietly laughing together, Queen Chrissy and King Josh enjoy their dance with the rest of the court.

The dance floor stayed crowded all night long with students having a blast.

Glowing with enjoyment, Freshmen Jovanna Jacobsen and Leslie Munro make some great memories at Homecoming '96.

Dancing With Tradition

Sadie Hawkins was once again spirited with the traditions AHS' students have upheld since its conception. The fashion on the dirt floor of the fairgrounds was flannel, with a few straw hats and overalls, too. Bustin' a move was obviously the main attraction, but when taking a break, students helped themselves to a romp in the hay and a pose for the camera, as well as getting hitched to their pals faster than a drive-thru chapel in Las Vegas.

The fun of the traditions for Sadie Hawkins is the reason it continues each year. It's basically the Hal-loween for us big kids.

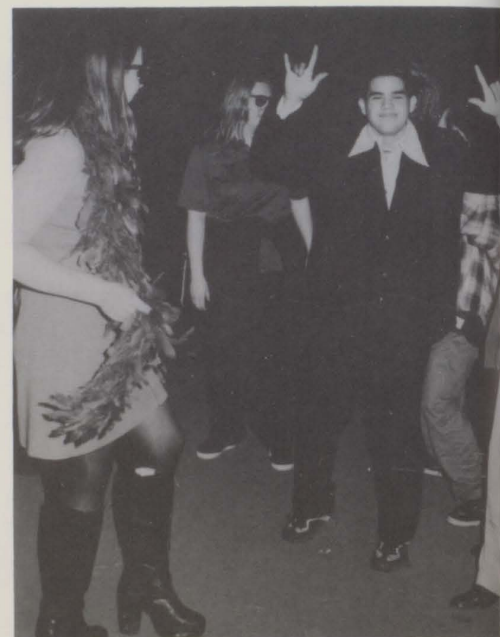

Smiling sweetly, Melissa Jagger, Jill Kelley, and Alicia Christian take a few minutes from all the dancing to spend some quality time with the camera.

All dressed up for the night's events, Misty Mallonee and John Krebs take time to sit down on the hay and have their picture taken.

Grouping together for a picture, Amy Patching, Chris Holmsteadt, Erin Munro, Misty Mallonee, and John Krebs are all grins.

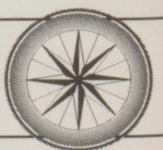

"Rock on boys!" Sky Silga says as he strikes a pose. Elizabeth Hakala stands back to observe her date's 15 minutes of fame.

"Smile big kids!" Steven Blue, Mark Flanagan, Mackenzie Wood-Rick, Valorie Landwehr, Gina Neal, and Addie Bales.

Enjoying the evening, dancers come together to form a snake line encouraging others to join in.

Taking a break from all the dancing, the seniors show their class spirit by having a group picture taken in memory of their last Sadie Hawkins.

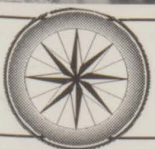

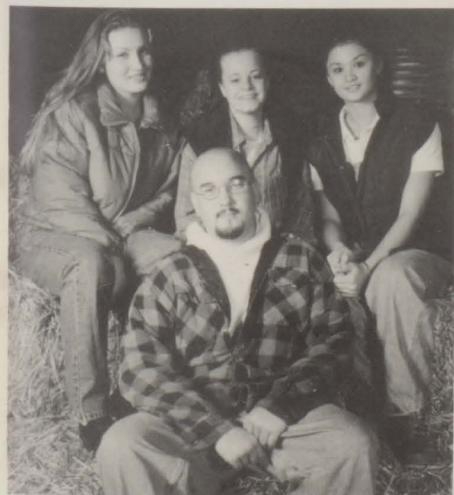

All dressed up for an evening of dancing to country music, Clint Kindred and Veronica Hemeon smile for the camera during the busy night.

Having said their vows, Hanna Records slips the wedding ring onto Chris Nemomill's finger as Marry'n Sam looks on. Having been chosen as Daisy May and Lil' Abner, Jill Kelley and John Krebs dance together to keep lit the honorable flame of tradition.

Kicked back and relaxed, "Pimp Daddy" Zach Storey poses for the camera with his three dates, Bobbi Rudolphi, Ami Zei, and Leslie Crane. The smooth three amigos, Juniors Jeremy Ahola, Chris Holmsteadt, and Austin Houghtaling take a minute to prove to the camera what makes them so suave.

After the music performance many community members enjoyed art work produced by the high school painting, drawing, and photo classes.

Appearing ever so angelic, Shannon Lynch, Desiree Mendez, and Jennine Wheeler tempt the heavens with their incredible voices.

Though not succeeding very well, Senior Angela Miles tries not to laugh at a fellow band member's unsightly blemish.

Trying to stay in tune with the rest of the band, Sky Silga taps out a tune on his zany xylophone.

It's Called Art

OR SOMETHING LIKE THAT

Every year, the Winter Arts Experience allows the talented students at Astoria High showcase their abilities for the community. And 1996 was no different. The Port City singers shared their holiday spirit with a variety of songs, ranging from "Operator" with soloist Jennifer Martin, to "The Christmas Song" with soloist Jennifer Cyrek. The Choir and String Orchestra entertained the audience with their amazing musical abilities and awed everyone with their harmonious sounds. And after the musical performance, everyone piled into the cafeteria to enjoy the artwork and project display. And to top the evening off a reception was held simultaneously, sponsored by the AHS Parents' Club.

WINTER ARTS EXPERIENCE 1996

John Boutin wows the audience with his sassy sax during his solo while performing "Southern Express" by Carl Strommen.

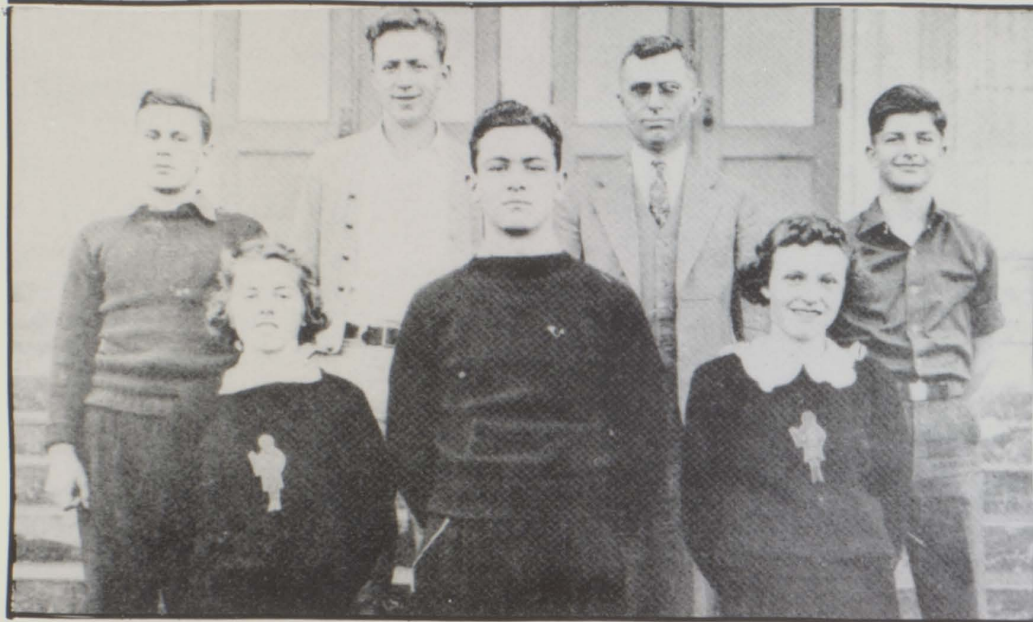

Playing with the Advanced Choir, Josh Stromquist adds a melodious note to Handel's "Messiah" with his amazing trombone talent.

The Associated Student Body Council of AHS has been an essential part of school since the school's opening. It is the stand-by voice of AHS students.

Some highlights of activities and protocol include:

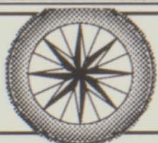

♦In the early 1920's, the Student Council had 10 members, including the editors and business managers of the Zephyrus and the Astor Post.

♦Students hussled to bring in items for a rummage sale after the 1963 Student Council promised to let the students with the most items throw pies at officers.

♦1971 Student Council President Rod Leback said, "The aim of student council was to be responsive to student desires," which resulted in the establishment of a student grievance committee.

BLOOD DRIVE

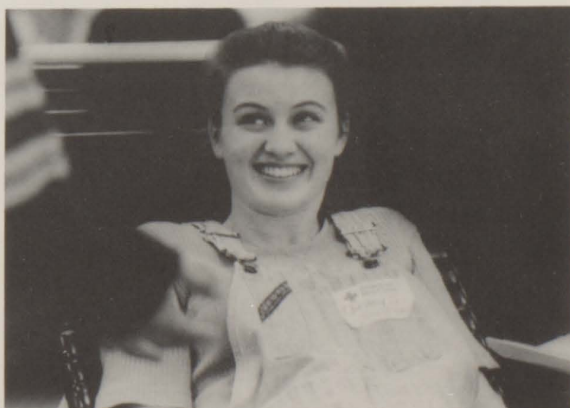

At this years blood drive 86 pints of blood were collected.

There were only 8 deferrals and 48 of the donors were first time donors. We had 16 student and 4 adult volunteers to help the donors.

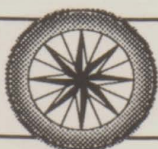

Having her ear pricked to get her blood tested, Melissa Jagger laughs at the questions she's asked.

Listening to the nurse explain what she will do, Chris Shower sits back and relaxes.

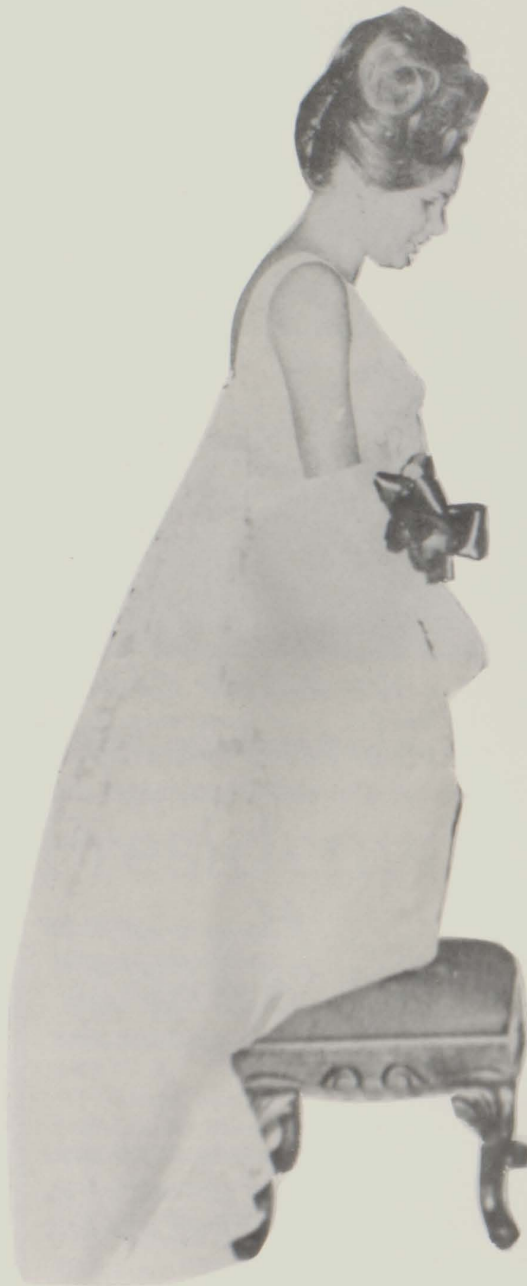

Watching the nurses every move Kirsten Gunderson inspects what he is doing to her arm.

Seeing Chrissy Middleton's nervous expression, a volunteer offers a hand for her to hold.

Proms From the Past

Queen Gornul (1963 Prom Court) said what made the event so special was Typhoon Frieda.

With the Casino theme of the 1971, Queen Sue Korpela had a great time.

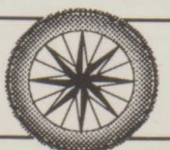

The prom court of 1956 has a great prom night. In the annual float parade, their themes ranged from "Stranger in Paradise" to "Shake, Rattle and Roll."

The Princesses of 1953 get together for a group picture.

Twirling on the dancefloor of 1957 Prom, the couples enjoy a special night.

Career Fair Explores the World of Job Opportunities

The 1997 career fair once again opened the area of career opportunities for many students. Chaired by Mrs. O'Bryan once again all of her time and hard work paid off. Six schools from around the area visited the career fair at the Clatsop County Fairgrounds on February 11th and 12th, they were Knappa, Astoria, Warrenton, Seaside, Jewell, and Ilwaco. The fair was geared towards juniors and seniors but any age would have benefited. The fair was set up in six different career categories, they were; Arts and Communication, Business and Management, Health Services, Human Resources, Industry and Engineering, and Natural Resources. Several colleges and military branches were also there for a total of 42 booths. The feedback was very positive and many benefited from their experience at the 1997 career fair.

PROM 1997

"FOREVER TONIGHT"

Taking a break from the dance floor, Senior Jason Dean kicks back in one of the royalty chairs.

Getting funky like only he can do, Senior Kerby McGinnis busts out some of his best moves.

Smiling pretty for the camera, Seniors Jenny Laughman and Maria Schawermann take a break from the excitement of the ballroom.

Snuggling up to a slow dance, Senior Rachel Douglas and sophomore Jasper Devereaux enjoy the moment.

Taking a few minutes to cool down, juniors Carrie Pitts and Sean O'Connor gaze at the other party animals that are heated up on the dance floor.

The crowd gets down to the music of the D.J.

King August Norgaard and Queen Angela Miles pair up for the Queens Dance to "Forever Tonight".

The long awaited Junior/Senior Prom had finally arrived. It was May 17, 1997 at the Elks Ballroom in downtown Astoria. This years theme was "Forever Tonight" by Peter Cetera and Crystal Bernard and the colors were black and gold.

Melisa Kiepke took advantage of the D.J., "I boogied down like I've never boogied before. I felt like a princess."

For the Seniors, it was their last formal dance at Astoria High as Senior Jenny Laughman points out. "It was the last dance as the Class of 1997. I had fun."

"Hey, I got to dress up, had money spent lavishly on me and got treated like a queen. All in all, it was a pretty good night." said Erin Munro of the occasion.

The evening wasn't bad for the Juniors either. Junior Princess Keysa Hale said, "It was fun. Everyone was dancing, even Mr. and Mrs. Landwehr.

The evening was one of dancing, food, pictures and fun. For some it was the last, for others only the first, but either way, it was one full of great memories.

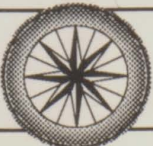

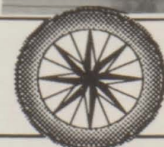

Looking on as the Prom Court is being presented, Jeff Scoggins, Elizabeth Hakala, Sky Silga, and Justin Elfering wait patiently for the next song.

Showing off a few of their moves, Juniors Matt Stewart and Rachel Stokeld get together for a little "Soul Train".

They all brought their talents to the table. Some were photographers. Some were writers. Others, well, they weren't really sure what they were. And they really didn't care to find out.

Putting together a book like this was a monumental challenge. There were thousands of negatives to sort through, not to mention all the decades of information, hundreds of stories, and piles of memorabilia. Finding a starting point, much less an ending page, was a journey in itself.

A lot of credit has to be given to this staff for looking beyond what was happening this year and researching the past. Sometimes it was a struggle, often times an unpleasant experience, but most of the time, it was worth it.

So this was our diverse group of journalists, Tina Amela, Jared Bigby, Josh Blomquist, Travis Caulder, Lisa Fackler, Stefanie Fay, Keysa Hale, Kim Harris, Chris Holmstedt, Melissa Kiepke, Marjo Larson, Jennifer Laughman, Chrissy Middleton, Erin Munro, Caryn Nelson, August Norgaard, Nicole Pierie, Melissa Satterwhite, Lindsay Schlieski, Andy Schmitz, Randy Snow, Preston Van Hook, Elise Wagner, Cathy Jo Wood, and Autumn Zorich.

One last note, to the staff that will someday put together the 200th edition, we're glad it's you and not us.

A 1947 Look at Dating Conduct

"Sure, I'd love to go to the party with you, Bob." Boy, those are the sweetest words you ever heard! Alice is such a swell kid, isn't she? Good looking too. And so much fun. So it's all set. You're taking Alice to the party. It'll be your very first date, and hers, also. "Gosh," you exclaim to yourself, "Hope I don't make any boners." Your first concern will be to make sure that you're neat and clean. Alice will expect that. It's due her. She's fastidious in her own appearance, and it's no more than fair to expect her escort to be the same. So shine up those shoes, brother, see that your clothes are clean and well-pressed, your hair combed and your molars scrubbed until they glisten like pearls.

How about your fingernails? You'll not be a sissy, you know, if you trim them up neatly or even have a professional manicure. Ever notice a physician's nails? They're well-groomed. It's a fine habit to get into. Above all, watch out for dirt under them. Soil is fine for the garden. It's needed to grow radishes. But it doesn't belong under a fellow's nails. Might be a good idea to cleanse your mouth with a good antiseptic too. Unpleasant breath, they say, has its drawbacks. And remember the bathtub was made to use, not to serve as an ornament. Now you're all set, but don't forget to mind your P's and Q's. Remember Alice, Jane, Mary, will notice these little things and they are just as important as the big things. If you take these few points, you'll find Alice accepting you more and more. Who knows? You might become "the perfect" of all the girls!!

GROOMING- "Every girl should have glossy, neatly arranged hair, a clean, fresh skin, well-kept hands, and clean well-brushed teeth. This is a very important part of her makeup. Heavy applications of rouge, lipstick and mascara make her seem inexperienced rather than sophisticated."

CLASSROOM MANNERS- "Don't waggle your hand around in the teacher's face while she is talking. She knows you are brilliant and can answer any question."

"Boys! When you have a seat on a bus and a girl or a woman or elderly man gets on, get up and offer them your seat. Your legs are much more sturdy than theirs and if I remember correctly, you like to stand anyway."

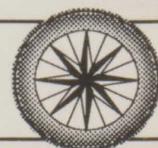

GIRLS- "When going to a dance, don't wait for all the most popular boys to ask you. Go with a nice, if inconspicuous young fellow. Even if you aren't enjoying yourself don't let your partner know it."

BOYS- "Don't gossip and don't talk about your date of the night before. Pay your own way on dates unless previously arranged. Don't chisel. If you borrow, be sure to return it quickly."

The above excerpts were direct quotes from "To Do...or Not to Do..." A guide to high school etiquette compiled for boys and girls at Astoria High School (1947).

Welcoming all of the family and friends of the graduates, Clinton Oja leads everyone in a prayer.

Reading a scripture passage for the baccalaureate service, Maria Schauermaun guides the seniors down the right path.

BACCALAUREATE

Telling the audience to "Run into the fire", Chris Schauermaun leads people away from evil.

Waiting to see who got what scholarships, Chrissy Middleton, Marjo Larson, Stefanie Fay, and Tina Amela smile for the camera one last time together.

With a fleeting glance, Cathy Jo Wood is caught enjoying the moment prior to the ceremony.

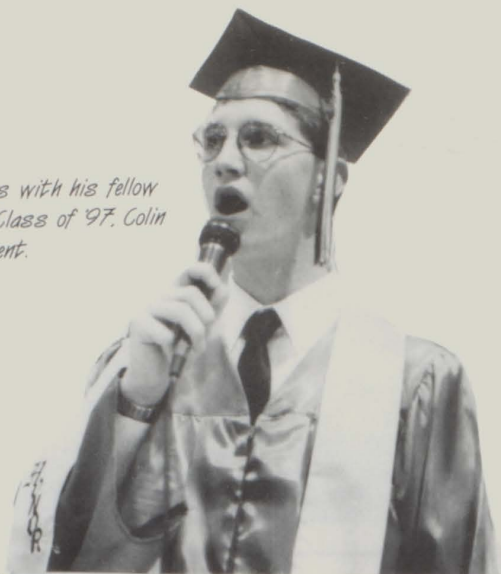

Looking proudly at the seniors, Mrs. Hawley tells the audience of their accomplishments and how much they changed in four years.

Overwhelmed with the thought of graduating, Frank Gassman celebrates getting his diploma with the rest of the Class of 1997.

Sharing his talents with his fellow members of the Class of 97, Colin Little siezes the moment.

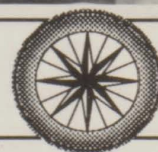

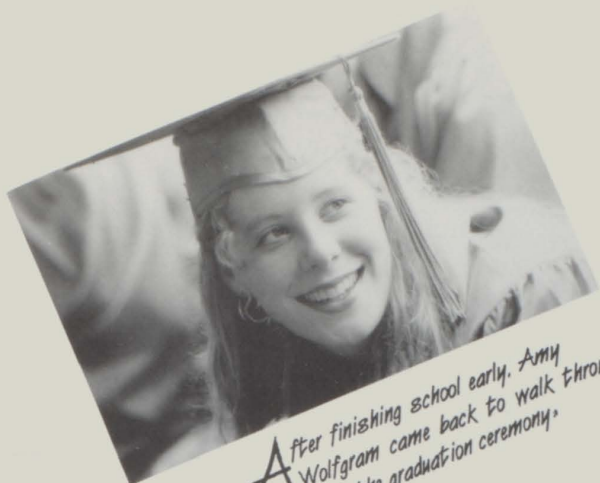

Together one last time, Curtis Mortensen, Jon Krebs, Jennifer Martin, Jennifer Cyrek, Colin Little and James Bryant sing "Yesterday".

Flashing a smile to her friends, Angela Miles can't wait to get to Senior Celebration.

Giving some good advice to the graduating seniors, Elizabeth Hakala has some help from Dr. Seuss.

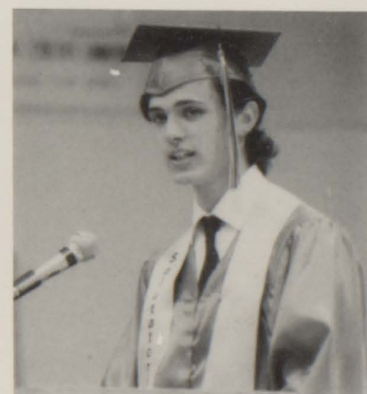

After finishing school early, Amy Wolfgram came back to walk through the graduation ceremony.

Sharing one last smile before they graduate, Autumn Zorich and Monica Records can't believe they are finally done.

Trying their luck, Josh Dodson, Brad Johnson and Greg Preston gamble away at Mr. Dessen's blackjack table.

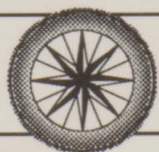

Taking advantage of the artistic talents of the tattoo artists, Jerry Mizar watches carefully as the tattoo is painted on his forearm.

Celebrating their graduation, the Class of 1997 cover themselves in silly string.

Reciting the poem "If", Rachel Douglas gives her Salutatorian speech.

Telling a little about his high school career, James Bryant shares his speech with the Class of 1997.

GRAD

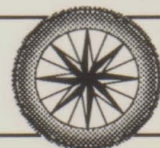

Giving her speech on "Major Happenings". Heather Swanson shares some of her own experiences with the graduation crowd.

Mr. Gierie received combs from each graduate as they walked past him. The Class of '97 thought he might want to fix his hair.

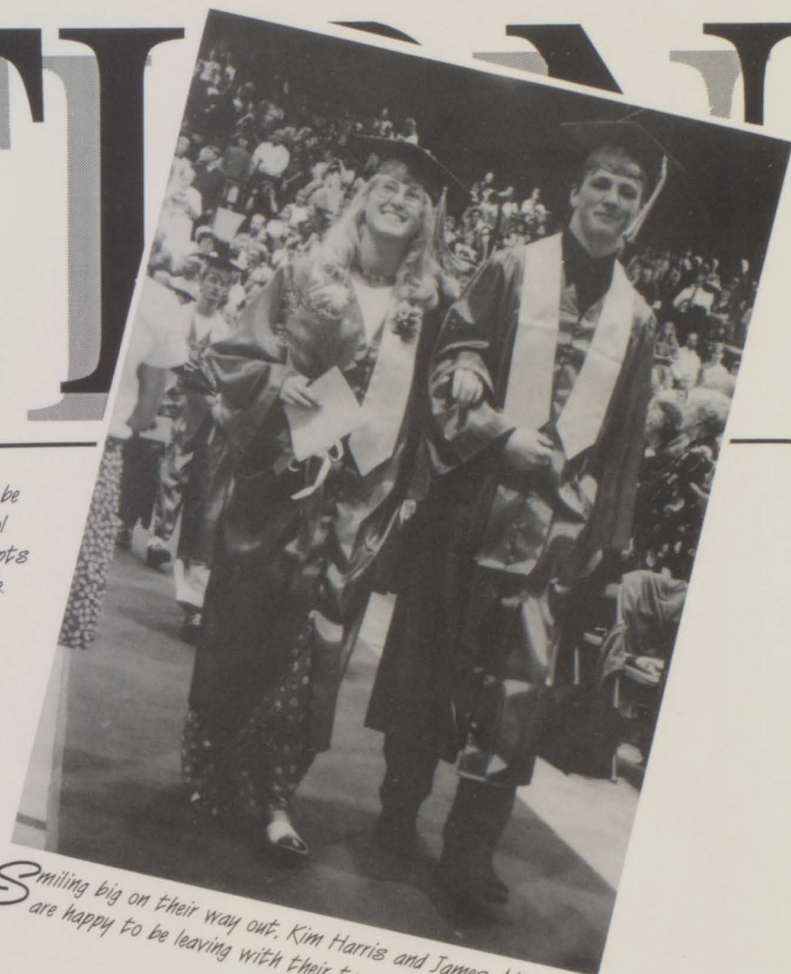

Looking a little out of it, the Class of '97 is looking forward to getting their diplomas and getting to Senior Celebration.

GRADUATION

Looking thrilled to finally be done with her high school career, Jaclyn O'Bryant accepts her diploma with a big smile.

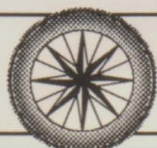

Smiling big on their way out, Kim Harris and James McClain are happy to be leaving with their tassels on the left.

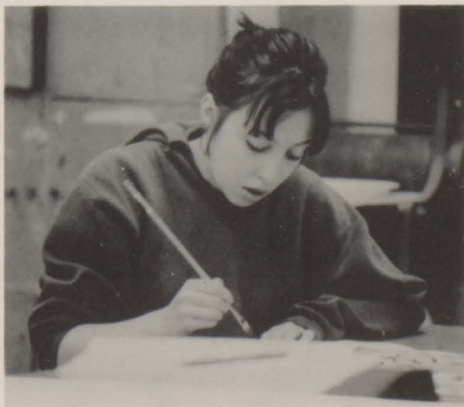

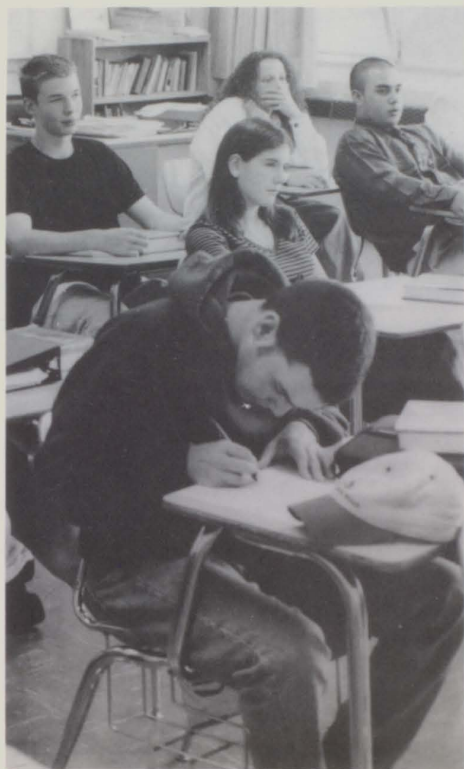

Taking the final step, Peter Miller shakes the hand of Superintendent Len Carpenter.

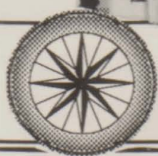

Singing "Because You Love Me", Jennifer Martin gives it her best.

History

Select members of the Sophomore class kick back in a "Big Chill-esque" atmosphere while field tripping to the state capital.

Explaining the cause and effect of war, Jovan Gates gestures to Rachel Jensen in a convincing manner.

Smiling to herself, Valerie Solheim shows that finding facts can be fun.

Finding something funny about history, Charity Higgins and Audrey Harris giggle about their joke.

American Government Class Invents Cyber City

What is the population of Astoria? Who is the mayor? How is the waterfront revitalization plan going to look when it is all done?

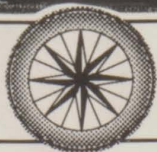

With a click of the mouse, citizens and visitors to Astoria were given the opportunity to find the answers to these questions thanks to Mr. Seeborg's American Government class and Kirsten Gunderson. The class researched the various city departments, talked with officials, and wrote up the text that is on the new city webpage. After writing up the materials everything was turned over to Kirsten to design, input, and create the webpage.

The address for the website is:
<http://www.columbia-pacific.interrain.org/astoria>

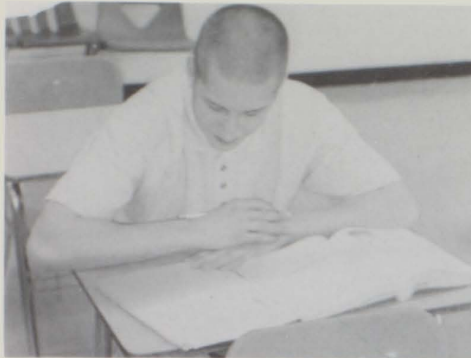

Fighting over who gets to play what role, Mr. Flowers's sociology class studies aggressive behavior first hand.

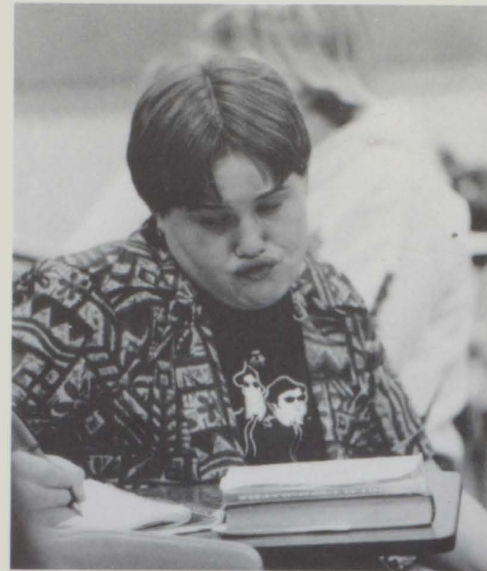

Oblivious to everything going on around him, Jasper Deveraux focuses on getting the job done.

English English English

Putting forth his most convincing attitude, Jason Miles diligently pens nonsense in his notebook.

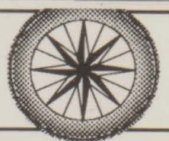

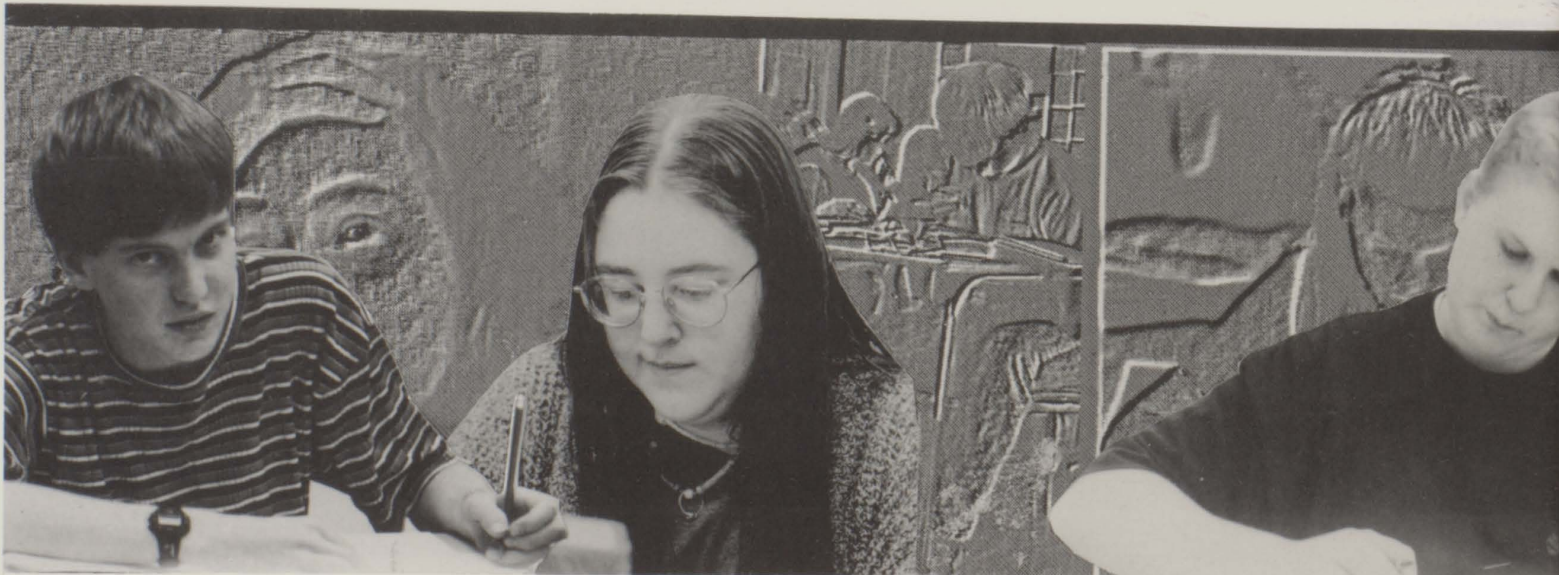

With an expression that says, "that's good enough," Morgan Beasley bluffs his way through a short essay in his English class.

Checking her paper for mistakes, Jennifer Martin wonders if "Fahrenheit" is spelt with an "ie" or an "ei."

Using break time to catch up on her homework, Lauren Wecker finds some enjoyment in describing a novel idea.

Somewhere

Somewhere, all alone, a young man patiently waits outside of a movie theater for the perfect woman, but the film started twenty minutes ago.

Somewhere, on a warm Summer night in a neighborhood park, a thirteen year old boy closes his eyes and clenches his fists as he receives his first kiss.

Somewhere, alone in his bedroom, The Quarterback and Prom King breaks down in tears when he finally realizes that he is gay.

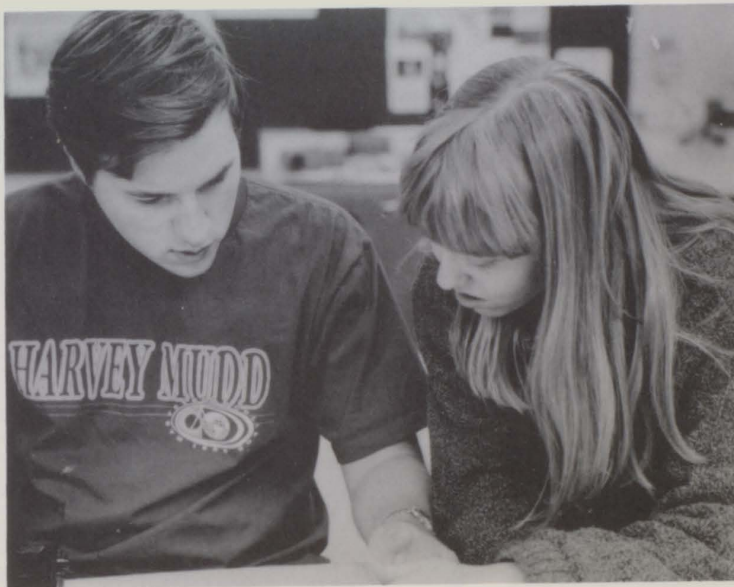

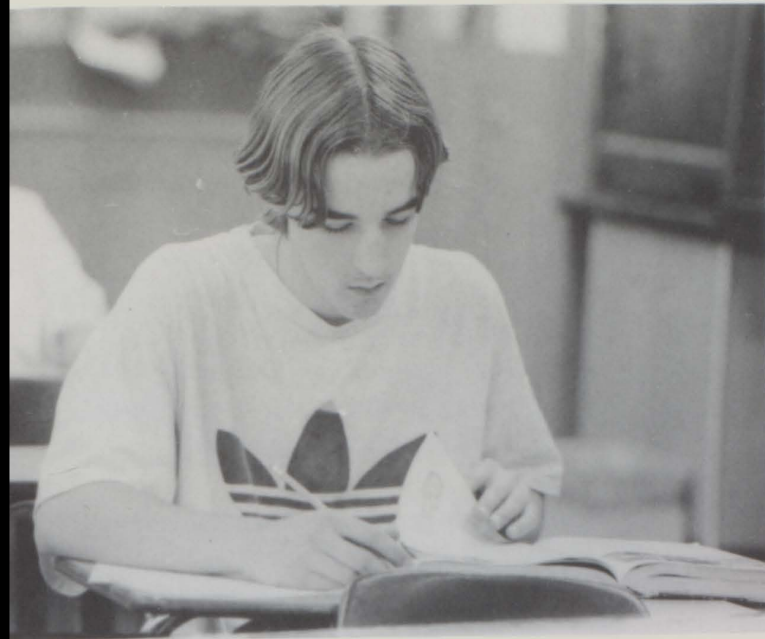

Somewhere, in a dark alley a young boy is being beaten by a gang because he wore the color red to school.

Somewhere, a young man is suddenly overwhelmed by the warmest feeling he's ever known. It makes his stomach tie in knots, but gives him a happy tingling all over, and he realizes that it's love.

Somewhere in the Midwest, while a teenager is working on a car in his garage, the radio sings the five greatest words ever written: "All you need is love."

--Jonathan Krebs

Port City Singers

Concert Choir

Harmonizing for the Arts Experience performance, Jennie Wheeler, Lisa Wyatt, Shannon Lynch, and Desiree Mendez hit the notes perfectly.

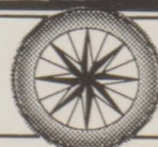

Playing beautifully on her viola, Tiffany Ambiel relaxes the audience with her soothing music.

Getting the crowd pumped, pep band members Roy Jackson and Aaron Albrecht were instrumental to the group before the breakup.

As a part of the Spring awards night, the choir entertained the modest crowd. The music addition was a big hit.

Orchestra

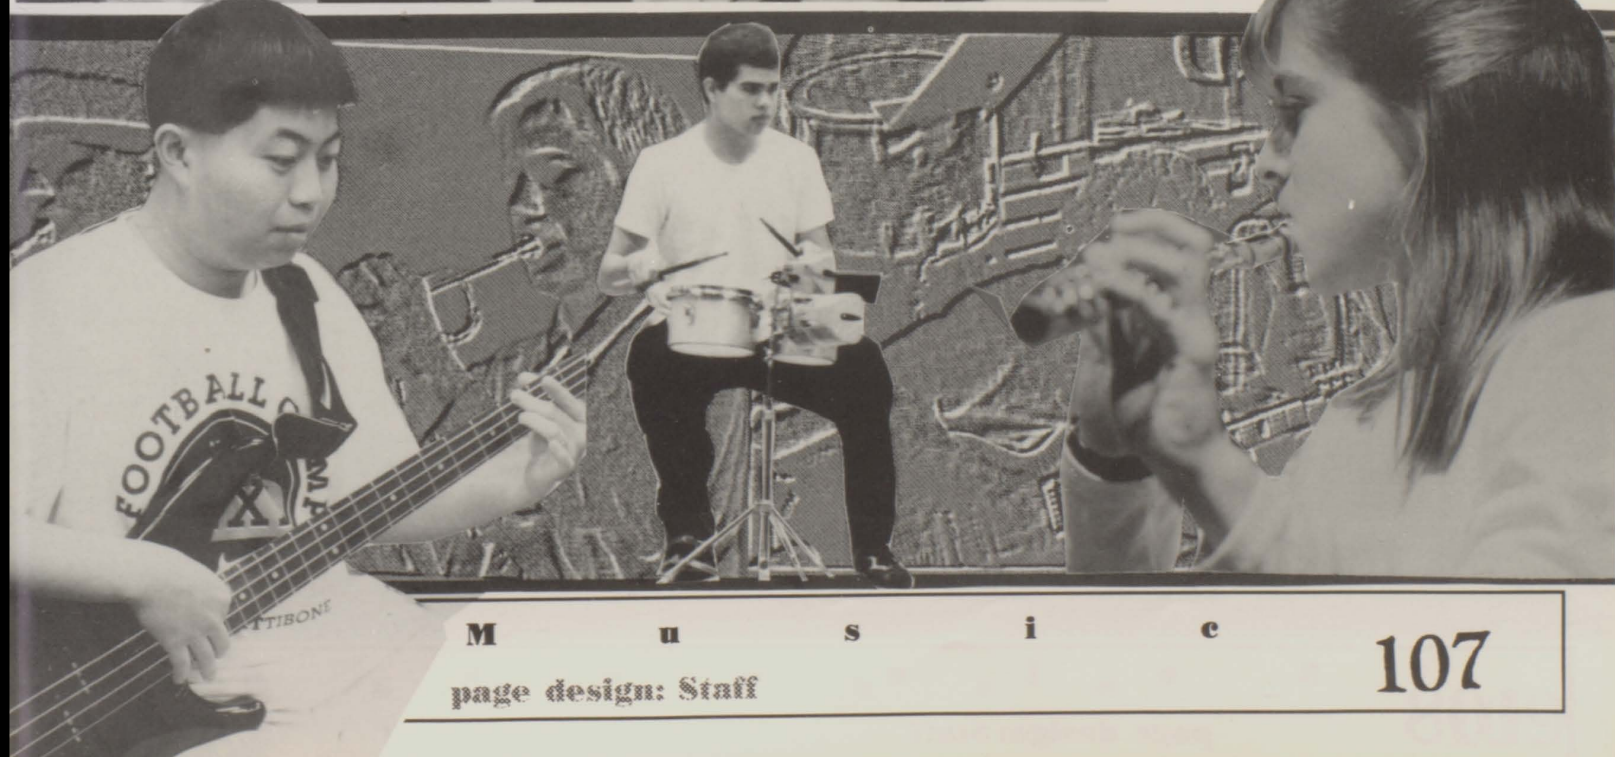

Struggling to loosen up during rehearsal, Michael Kustura grimaces as he looks through his music.

Playing a hot mix of early jazz favorites, the stage band kept the toes tapping at the awards night ceremony.

Music, Music, Music!

It's been another busy year for the music department. A list of activities include: a concert tour of the area elementary schools, the Winter Arts Experience, District Solo and Ensemble contest, a concert at Astoria Middle School, select students attending Music In May camp and playing in the pit orchestra for Gypsy and for KMUN's classical brunch, as well as groups playing for awards nights, baccalaureate and graduation, and the big finale, the Spring Arts Experience.

The students worked the entire year with great dedication. Good job!

Helping work through a story problem of sorts, Mr. Schlieski gives Shannon Lynch a diagram to follow.

Making it all add up, Cathy Jo Wood crunches the numbers to balance out her checking account in Mr. Goin's accounting class.

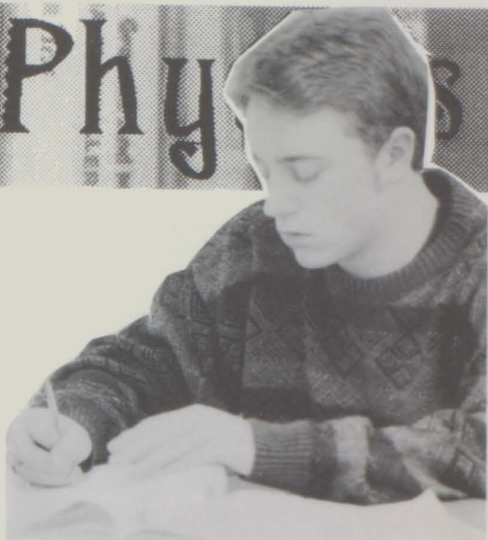

Chuckling at a Melissa Kiepke's witty comment, even Mr. Landwehr was distracted from doing his math for a short time.

Science and Math

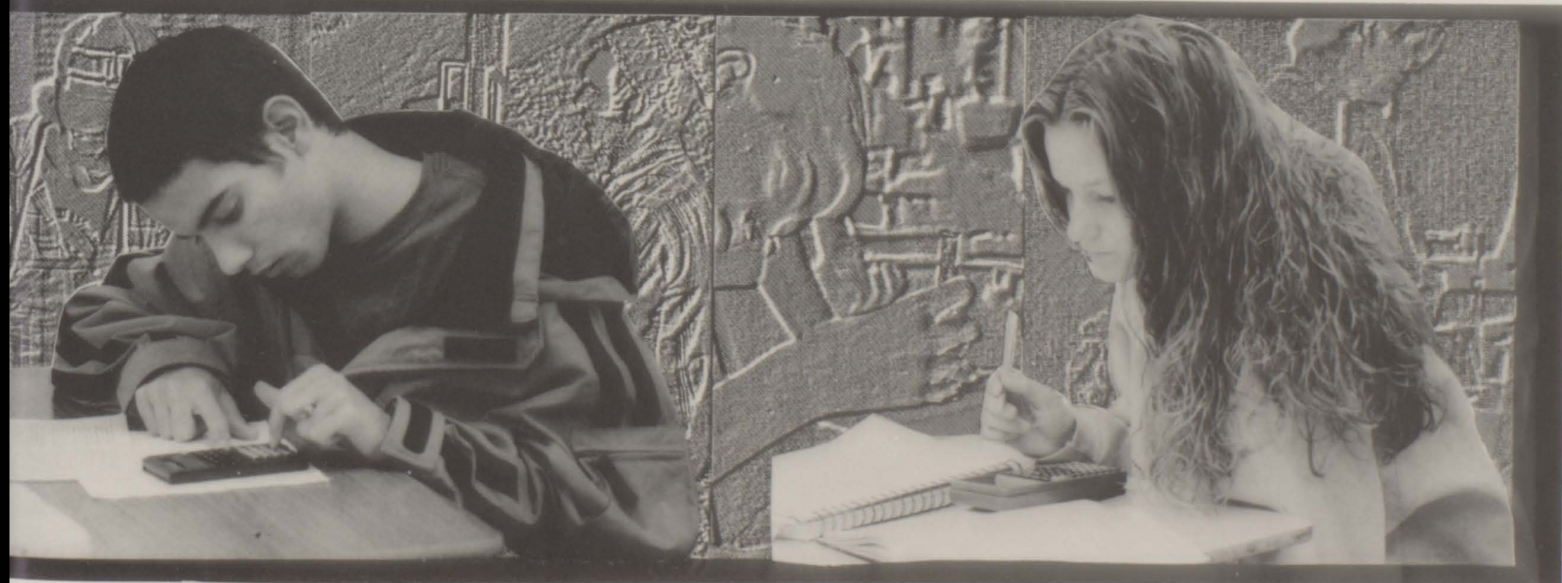

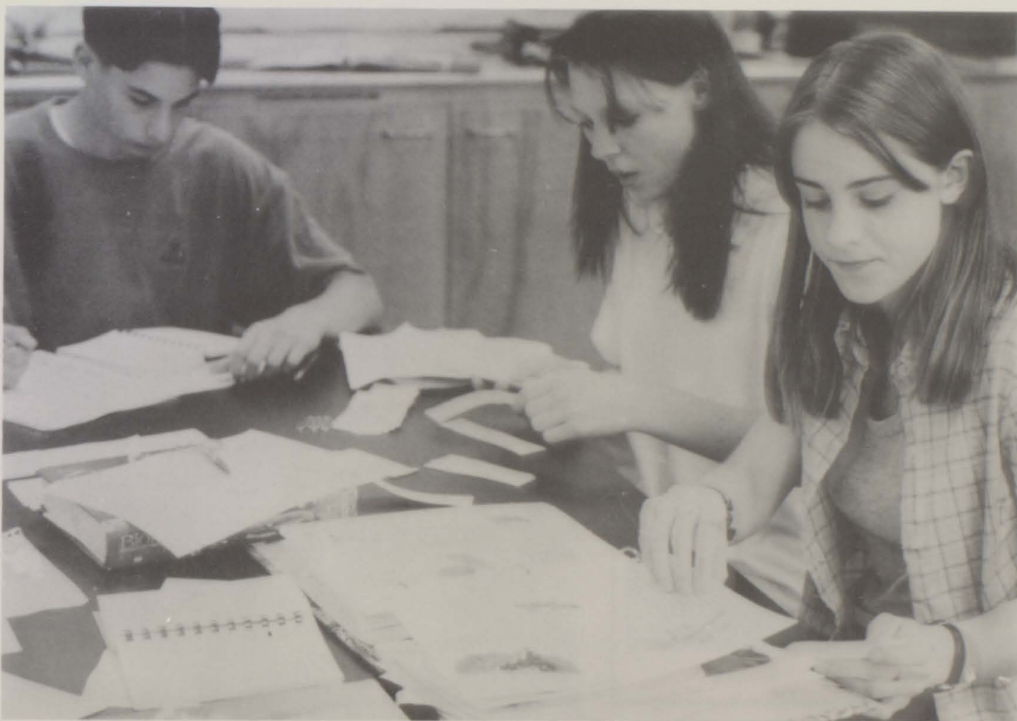

Poking her finger to get a sample for blood typing, Mr. Fay takes care of a skeptical Sarah Barlow.

With little effort, genius John Krebs does all his math homework without a calculator.

Working frantically to finish up their leaf collections, Sasha Rappaport, Hanna Long and Leslie Duling take the clipped leaves and add them to their notebooks.

A Flicker of Hope

When ex-NFL quarterback Tom Flick came to AHS, his message was clear, "live your life with a purpose." Encouraging the receptive student body to go home and write down their goals for what they want from their lives is the first step to success. "You don't start a journey without a map," commented the motivational speaker. "Make a plan and look at it everyday."

Riding the Java Train

The buzz of the decade is espresso, and its accessibility makes it easy for anyone to get their fix.

In 1996, AHS brought the jolt of caffeine to students through Espresso State University, a work experience program ran by AHS students.

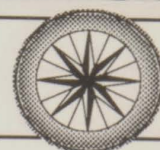

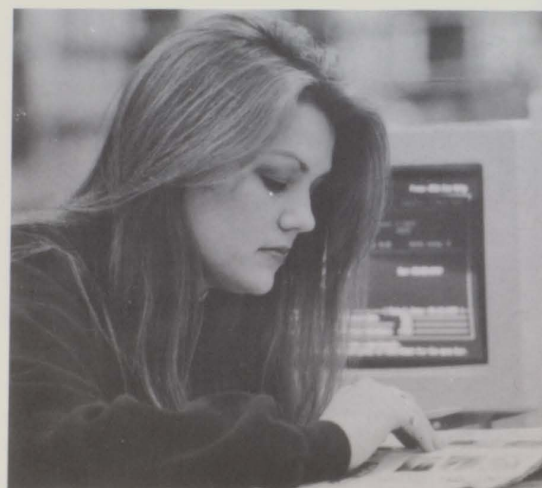

So, while students who ran the espresso stand learned about the inner workings of a small business, customers learned the quick wake-me-up effect of espresso. Plus, it was only a hallway away.

Catching up on some current events, library aide Lisa Weise waits for some business at the checkout counter.

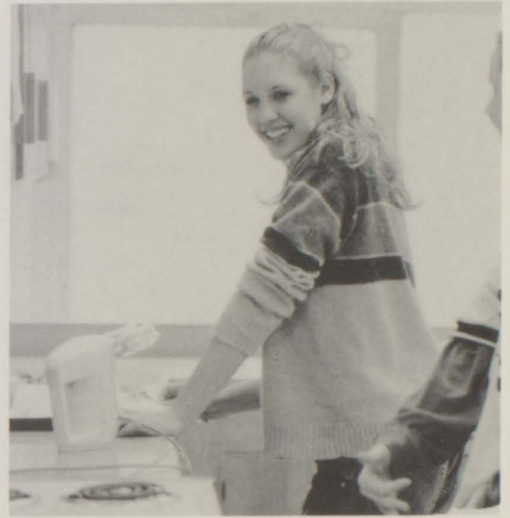

Electives

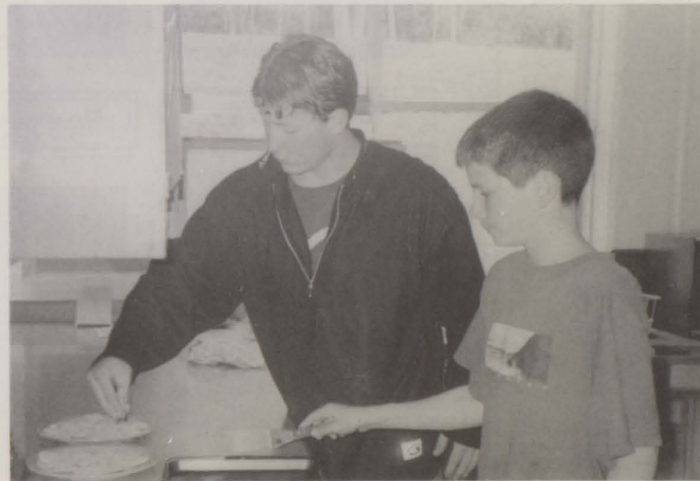

Handling the net with a concerned look, Peter Miller all of a sudden realizes that fish-slimed hands don't necessarily do the job.

Electives

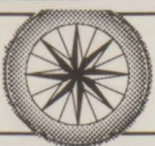

Working on rebuilding an engine, Junior Amanda Pizer carefully matches up the right parts.

Having too much fun in the kitchen, freshman Kati Perry rolls up her sleeves and obviously has something cooking.

Carefully sprinkling their masterpiece with sugar, Cris McGonnamghy and Josh Walker are anxious to eat the cookies.

Life Skills

Providing lessons that prepare students for the future.

Beginning in the 1980's, a fourteen year old by the name of Mo entered Astoria High School. Mo was special not only because he was handicapped, but also because he was the first student to enter the special needs program.

Since the time that Mo entered high school, the students modest business "making sense", which was started by teacher Joan Wilkerson, has been growing and growing. The business, which makes dog biscuits and popourri, gives the students an understanding of production and distribution.

Last year there were 27 peer tutors helping out with the class. These are students that show an interest in helping out with the 13 life skill students. They help the class members collect paper for recycling from all the rooms around the school and processing the paper, glass, and cardboard into containers to be sent away to a recycling plant.

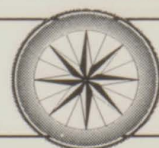

Life skill students can remain in class until the age of 21. When a student is about to graduate, job development skills are emphasized and each student is given a chance to work in the community as a way of getting the feel for specialized jobs.

The program today is a huge success thanks to the dedication and care of a staff that wants the best for each of the students.

Working on doing an assignment in her workbook, Allison Dean enjoys the relaxed atmosphere of the room.

Stopping on their rounds of collecting paper to be recycled, Jesse Maddox, Frank Gassman and Ed Klee were helpful in the success of getting the school to think about the environment.

Sharing a special moment during the home coming olympics, Emily Harris and teacher Carrie Thoreson were entertained by the excitement of the activities and the balloons.

Learning how to use a new program that sharpens mathematic skills, Mr. Bradley and Brandi Perry used the computer to reinforce new ideas.

"Outdoor school was an experience that will help me for when I have kids of my own. It was a lot of fun!" Preston Vantlook

Three days and two nights filled with, lichens, frogs, maps, nests, bugs; topped off with a fall lunar eclipse at Camp Kiwanilong, made Outdoor School extremely exciting. The fourth and fifth graders from Gray Elementary School were fortunate to be blessed with sunshine. Unlike last year's Lewis & Clark student's who withstood 72 hours of constant drizzle.

The students along with 23 counselors from the high school got a basic idea of the intricate art of making nest for birds. It was difficult enough with two hands, imagine how a bird feels. Students also learned that lichens are a combination of algae and fungus. They then got a chance to find lichens growing on hard surfaces such as trees.

Most of the counselors were allowed a short break from the fun and learning do to sports and class's at school. Over all, Outdoor School was a knowledge filled fun and successful experience.

DANCING UP A STORM

Every year the French and German classes get the opportunity to dance with Carol Newman. It's a two week vacation from the classroom. They get the chance to learn foreign styles of dances from all over the world.

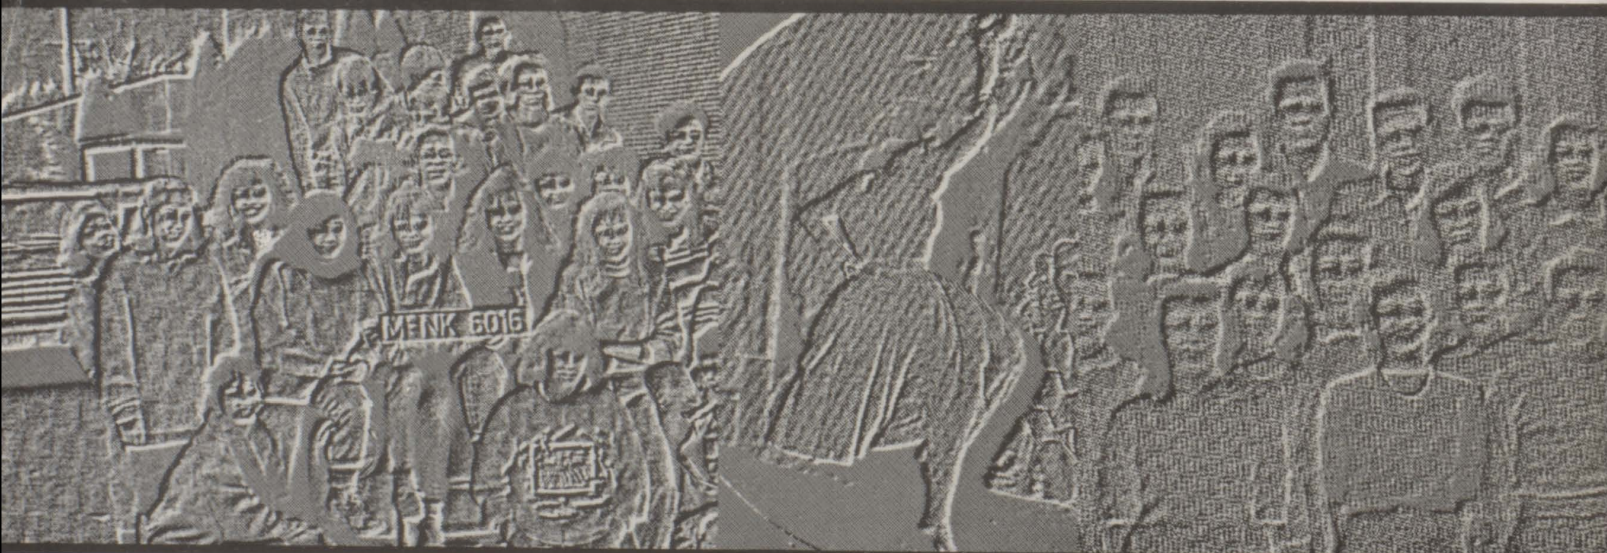

Carol travels all over the world getting a new dance where ever she goes. From the Italian Tarrontella to the Isreali Zemarateek her portfolio of dances is beyond compare. The dancing experience is a multi-cultural good time for all.

Laughing at their translations, Addie Bales and Katie McNalley find a way to have fun in German One.

Mini Courses Planned

According to Mr. Evans, the mini-courses are still at a "questionable" stage. Students will be given a stipend to fill out during which courses they wish to take. A list has been posted on every class bulletin board telling which courses are being offered.

Each student will be required to choose five courses, some of which will be more than one period in length. As yet it isn't certain, but Mr. Evans feels that grading will be done on a pass-fail basis. These courses will occupy the two weeks prior to spring vacation and teaching will be administered by a combination of both regular teachers and laymen.

The subjects listed were most interested in were in the fields of home and flannel, art, physical education, automotive, and home economics.

"Bye, Bye, Birdie" is the story of a romance between a composer-guitarist-actor and his secretary and the dragging of his rock-and-roll star. For a publicity stunt, they all descend on a small Ohio town and proceed to turn it upside down. The results of the play written by Michael Stewart provide the audience with hilarity.

ed must be willing to accept the large responsibility of head of our student government. Our student government organization should be a very important factor in the school. In fact, unless it is active it serves no purpose.

While serving on student council and as a class officer for two years, I have noticed that our student government is only a comparatively inactive organization. These are the candidates who are really participating.

We must encourage more people to take an active part in the government. The council members at the beginning of the year to help students understand their duties was a step in the right direction. But these types of programs are needed to make all of the students realize that this is the government. If we are to grow and improve, all students must work together to be proud of.

AHS—

Five hopeful Vice-Presidential candidates are off from their exciting campaign to pose for a pre-election picture.

A Season of GROWING PAINS!

Despite a very young and inexperienced team, the 1996 football season looked promising after two convincing preseason wins. The Fishermen quickly found out that their promise wasn't kept. The first glimpse that their promise would not be kept was in Tillamook in front of a large and optimistic crowd. The lesson learned was never give up no matter what the score is. The battle with the Banks Braves was hard fought, but the biggest blow was the number of injured players in that game. A total of seven starters were injured. Although a few players would return from their injuries, the Fishermen found it impossible to get back on the winning track.

And The Score Was...

WON	STAYTON	28-18
LOST	TILLAMOOK	12-57
LOST	BANKS	23-25

The objective towards the end of the season was for the Seniors to have fun and get lots of playing time and for the underclassmen to get experience for the upcoming years. Coach Andrea summarized the season by saying, "The Seniors showed a lot of courage and devotion by sticking with the team." Hopefully next year, the influence left by the Seniors will show.

"Next year, the Fishermen will return with experience."

Through Many Years of Change

1973-1974 Coach Liz Hewitt

Although Astoria volleyball didn't become part of a league until later, volleyball has been offered as an activity through the Girls Athletic Association (GAA) since 1930. Through this the clubs throughout the county would meet several times a year. It gave the girls a chance to participate in athletics of their own.

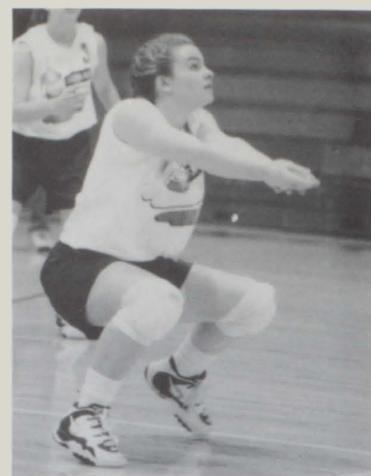

The first league team joined the Astoria High sports department in the fall of 1973. The Varsity team was led by Coach Liz Hewitt and consisted of ten girls. also then a J.V. team ws formed.

In the past twenty-three years volleyball has progresses a long way. Astoria has produced two state-bound teams and numerous playoff appearances.

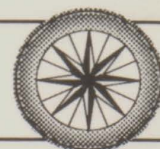

Taking a moment to collect themselves, the girls reflect on what needs to be done.

Getting down in preparation to pass the ball, Senior Stefanie Fay concentrates on giving it her all.

A Hard Day's Night

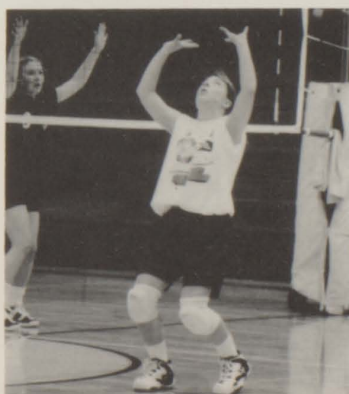

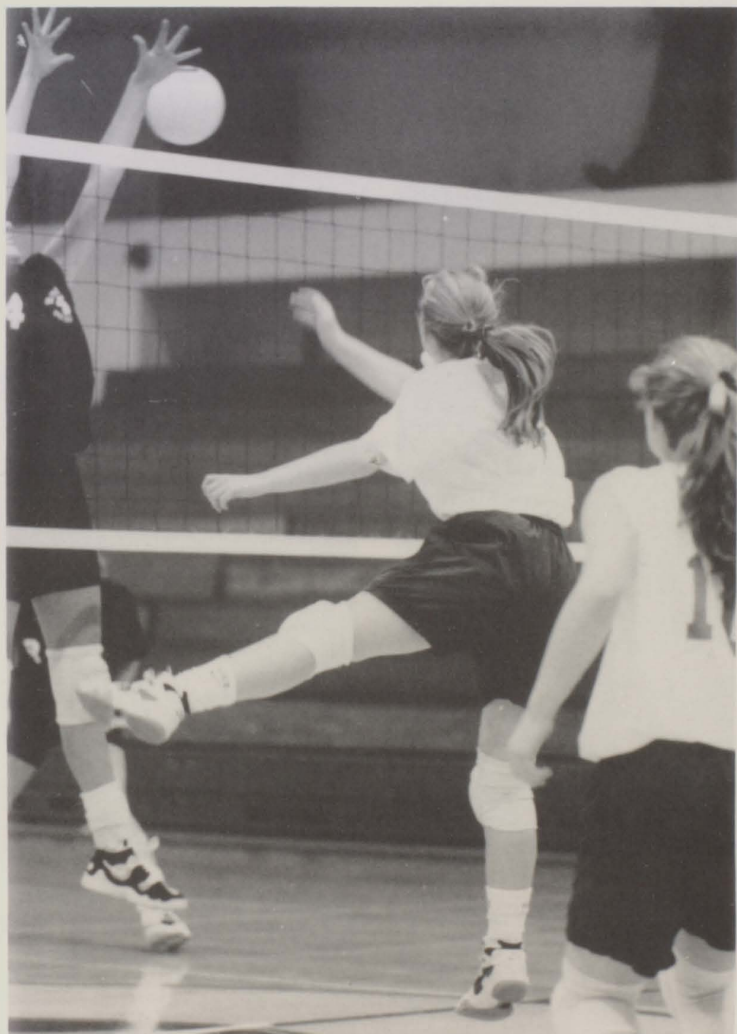

The beginning of the season offered high hopes and great expectations. With a very experienced new coach and seven returning seniors, the season looked to hold a promising future. Little did they know that their crystal ball would become clouded with unexpected fortunes.

New head coach, Dan Foss, came to Astoria with seven years of Club volleyball and eleven years of high school volleyball coaching experience. Not only did he bring his experience into the program, he also brought enthusiasm and new ideas. One such idea was "Pack the Gym Night". This idea was used in the home season opener against Rainier. "Pack the Gym Night" was designed to get as many spectators as possible to the game. The evening consisted of door prizes, cake raffles and a serving contest for the

for the fans.

As the season bore on, they had their ups...and their downs. From the Gladstone and Astoria tournaments they took third and, despite their efforts, were eliminated in the final game of consolation at Seaside. By far the highlight of the season was the team's second place finish at the St. Helens tournament of twelve teams. The team lost to number eight ranked Estacada in the championship match.

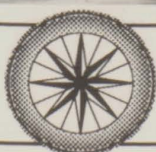

Although the season did not go as well as they had hoped, there were many memorable times that were created. This season was one of much contrast, going from a second place finish out of twelve teams to a 3-11 record. This contrast made for a rough season.

During a quick time-out Coach Foss gives the girls some helpful tips on how NOT to let the ball hit the floor.

Using perfect form, Senior Marjo Larson sets the ball to one of the hitters, in hopes of an assist.

Successfully hitting the ball around the opponent's block, Senior Tina Amela goes for the kill.

One Goal Away

Going in, the 1996 soccer season was filled with aspirations of a third strait trip to the class 3A state playoffs. Summer camps and hard off-season work produced a well prepared Fishermen side. With a solid nucleus of returning lettermen and an exchange student from Brazil the season was filled with promise. Kicking off the season with a #2 ranking in the state coaches poll the Fishermen battled the perennial 4A power Wilson. A convincing 4-1 defeat was the only match of the season that the Fishermen lost by more than one goal.

Compiling a 3-2-2 record in district play, the Fishermen found themselves in third place and hosting Corbett in a first round matchup. A well played game by both sides left the Fishermen on top 2-1. The win earned a rematch with defending state champions Catlin Gable. Controlling the first half of play, the Fishermen went into halftime leading 1-0. Rallying behind a home crowd the rival Eagles took control and played like champions, and sent the Fishermen home with memories of a great season.

Just wait and watch in wonder

The rule for the year: "Go into every meet looking to learn something. I can't promise that we will ever win a race, but we will come away with a better understanding of how to race." This was Coach Carl Dominey's instructions to his new batch of runners for the 1996 season. And new they were. Erin Munro was the only senior on the team this year, as well as the only female, with the rest of the team consisting of 4 juniors, 5 sophomores, and 2 freshmen.

Though this could be thought of as a major handicap for any team, the coaching staff, consisting of Mr. Dominey, Mr. Goodenberger, and Mr. Barker, decided to seize the opportunity and begin forming a State-Championship team for next year. But that's not to say that everyone didn't do well this year. Placing third at the District meet, the Fishermen just missed going to the state meet as a team. Qualifying individually for the state meet were sophomore Jasper Devereaux, who placed third in Districts, and senior Erin Munro, who placed sixth. All in all, Mr. Dominey was extremely satisfied, expressing he is "...very happy... as young as they are, I'm VERY pleased with them."

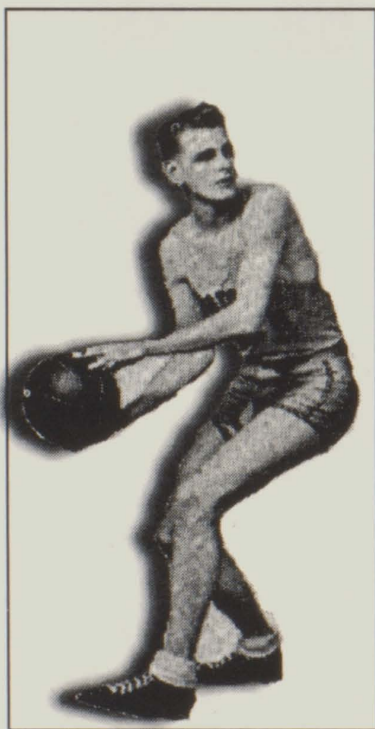

For years the stars of the game have been the players that could put the ball in the basket. A sharp eye, quick reactions, and a compliment of teammates that could get them the ball when they got hot made these players standouts.

Their names will forever be a part of Astoria High basketball as the shooters with the ability of

Defense Wins

Returning only four players from last years league championship season, the '96-'97 season looked uncertain. However, after minor setbacks in the preseason, the Fishermen won their fifth consecutive Cowapa league championship, and ninth straight trip to the 3A state tournament.

The hallmark of this squad was not a run and gun offensive attack, it was solid man to man defense. Holding their league opponents to an astounding 45.9 points per game was how the Fishermen got it done. When shots wouldn't fall, or they weren't getting the breaks, defense kept it close.

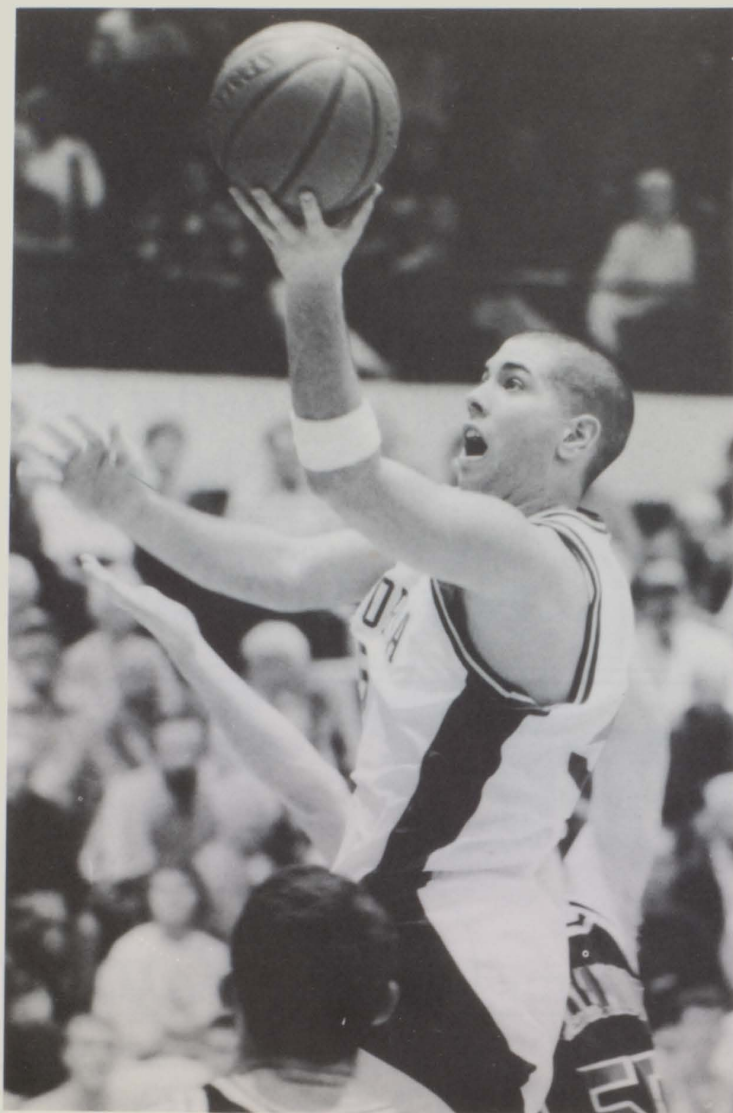

During league play the Fishermen dominated their opponents, only losing at Tillamook. However two starters did not play in the contest because of injuries.

Named to the All Cowapa League first team were junior Austin Houghtaling (2nd overall in voting), and senior August Norgaard. Earning Honorable Mention were junior Eli Ettro, and senior Jeff Hawkins.

Winning the seed game versus the Cheesemakers, sent the Fishermen as the #1 seed to the State Tournament. And after the dust had settled, the Fishermen came away with the seventh place trophy. One of the highlights was August Norgaard being recognized as a second team All-Tournament performer.

Losing only four seniors, the future looks very bright. With a proven big man in the middle, and experienced players around him, there's no doubt the Fishermen will again be one of the premier teams in the state.

Scoring two of his game high 19 points vs. Tillamook, junior guard Eli Ettro drives to the hoop. As well as leading the scoring attack, Eli had 10 rebounds and 5 assists. The win over the Cheesemakers sent the Fishermen as the #1 seed to the state tournament.

Blocking the shot of Tillamook's Mike Landolt with seconds left on the clock, Austin Houghtaling (left) created a loose ball that was picked up by Jeff Hawkins. Hawkins then buried a half court shot to seal the 42-39 Fishermen victory.

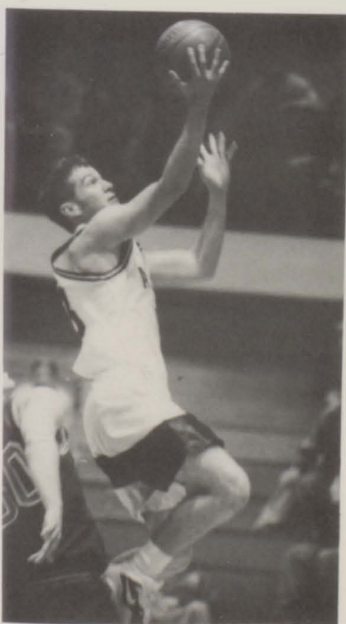

Extending the lead against Seaside, August Norgaard hits a three point shot. The Fishermen blasted the Gulls 60-23.

Driving the lane, senior guard Jeff Hawkins elevates up and over the defense for two points.

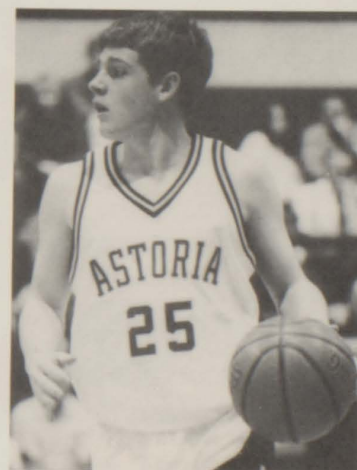

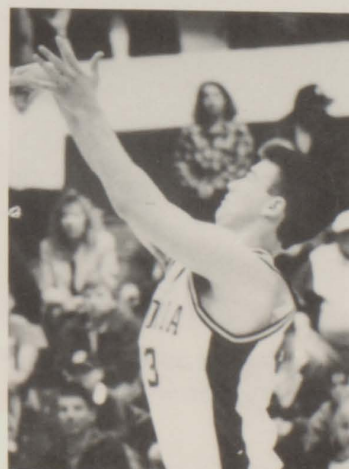

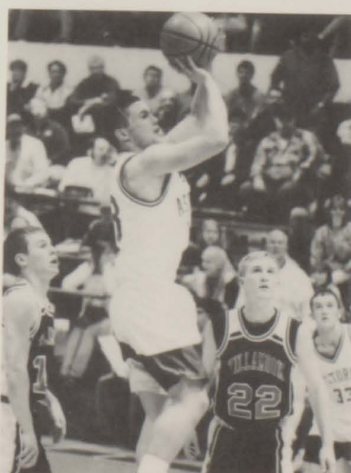

Showing his offensive skills, junior post/wing Taylor Van Meer knocks down a baseline jumpshot.

Giving advice during a timeout, coach Mike Goin covers defensive strategy, resulting in a home win over the Scappoose Indians.

Pulling up for a quick jumper, co-captain August Norgaard leaves the defenders standing flat-footed.

Sinking a free throw, senior post Josh Blomquist completes the 3-point play. Josh's effort inside was a great asset to the Fishermen.

Reversing the ball around the perimeter, senior guard Randall Snow avoids the defender and starts the offense.

Calling for the ball inside, junior Rachel Stokeld posts up and waits for the pass against the center from Scappoose.

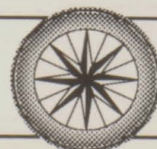

Pushing past the trap press, junior Rosalee Rasumnussen powers past the pressure. Despite some strong individual efforts, the girls lost the game against the Indians.

Giving a hand off the floor to her opponent, Rienna Gildner shows some good sportsmanship.

Taking a shot down the middle of the key, senior Marjo Larson drops the ball in the cylinder for two points. Penetrating the opposition's defense was one of the stronger points of Marjo's game.

Dancing with Pizazz

Starting out the season in August, a few changes were made in the way the team was selected. For the first time, a decision was made to have a JV team.

The varsity team, with only eight members, competed in many different organized competitions. At three of the competitions they brought home two first place trophies, one third place, a costume award, and an inspection award.

At the state level, their exciting western dance was a six minute routine to Aaron Copeland's "Rodeo." Held at the Memorial Coliseum, the team acquired the most points in the 3A small division. But judging is based on the judge's opinions, not on points, so the team received third place. To add to their accomplishments, the team also was given the inspection award.

Somewhere near the middle

The perennially strong Cowapa league, and inconsistent play hold the Fishermen to the middle of the pack.

Starting off, the season was filled with hope of finishing near the top of the league and making an appearance in the 3A state tourney. And after a preseason road trip to southern Oregon, the Fishermen felt prepared and determined to play well. However, inconsistent overall play limited the '97 squad to a meager 6-15 league record. On some days the Fishermen looked like world beaters, sweeping the season series from Scappoose, a team who challenged for the league title. Other days they looked sloppy and unsure of themselves. Losing only six players to graduation, there will be varsity experience returning for the '98 season.

Throwing heat by the Rainier batter, senior August Norgaard works ahead in the count. The Fishermen beat the Columbians in a home league contest.

Junior utility player Tim Rygg drives the pitch into left field. Tim played third base, outfield, and designated hitter for the Fishermen this season.

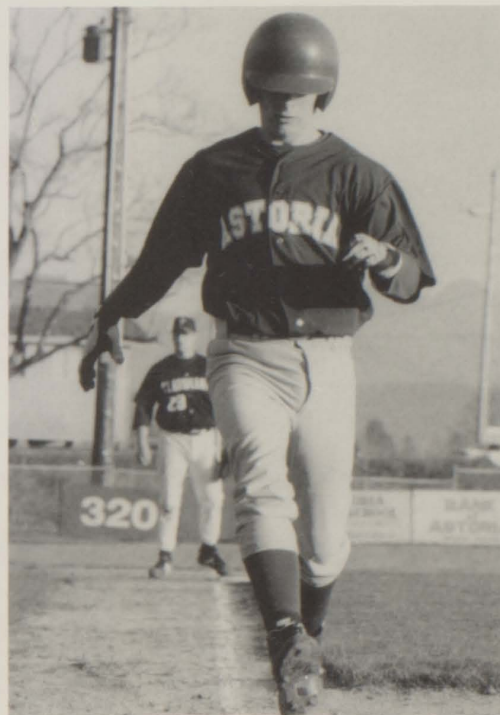

Beating the throw to first base, junior outfielder Clint Kindred forces a bad throw and advances to second. Clint's speed in the outfield and on the bases was a big asset to the Fishermen.

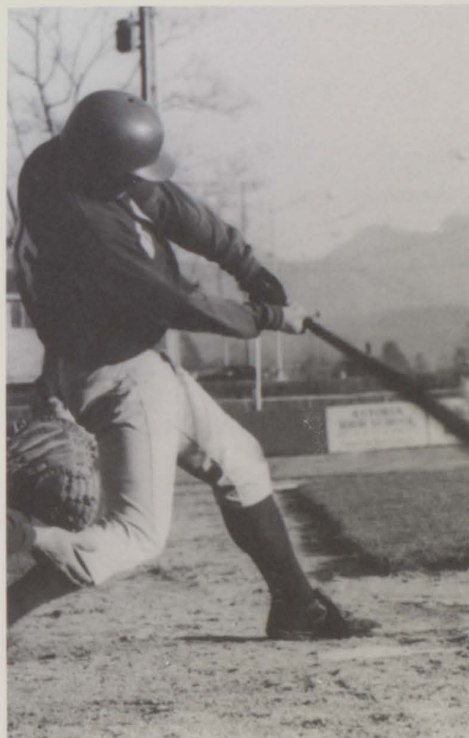

Holding the runner close at first, Senior pitcher Jeremy Olson throws to Josh Blomquist and forcing the St. Helens player to dive back. The Fishermen lost to the Lions 5-0.

Touching home plate, sophomore catcher Nathan Connaway scores a run against Clatskanie. Nathan split the catching time with fellow sophomore Matt Gustafson Watching a pitch in the dirt, Senior outfielder Kirby McGinnis waits for a pitch to drive. Kirby's solid defensive play and clutch hitting ability earned him a spot in the everyday lineup.

Getting set for the pitch, junior third baseman Adam Svensen focuses on the ball. Adam's versatility allowed him to play many different positions for the Fishermen.

Driving a pitch into the gap, senior outfielder August Norgaard scores the runner from second. August led the offensive attack this spring, leading the Fishermen in several categories.

Fouling a pitch off the plate, senior infielder Randall Snow stays alive in the count. Randy made the move from catcher to second base this spring.

Senior Jeff Hawkins prepares for the pitch and focuses on the ball. Jeff was usually the third batter in the order.

Sliding safely into third base, senior first baseman Josh Blomquist keeps a rally alive against Tillamook.

Taking a pitch high and tight, junior infielder Adam Svensen draws a walk to lead off the inning versus Clatskanie.

Fooling the hitter with a nasty curveball, Jeff Hawkins sends the batter back to the dugout.

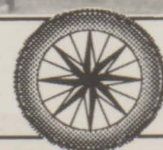

Coach Dessen and Coach Stienback offer encouragement in the late innings during a home league win over Scappoose.

Taking the sign from the third base coach, senior leadoff hitter Randall Snow concentrates on executing the play.

Perfectly executing the hit and run, junior outfielder Clint Kindred hits behind the runner and moves him to third.

Ripping the pitch up the middle, senior Josh Blomquist drives in a run. Josh was the fifth batter for the Fishermen this year.

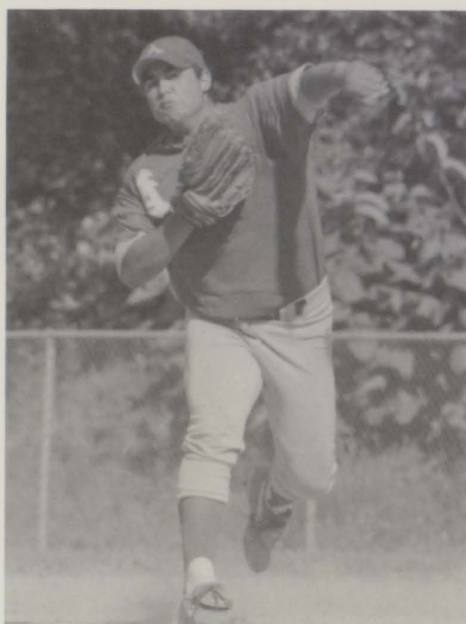

Demonstrating top notch form, sophomore Francis Flabela looks for another base hit.

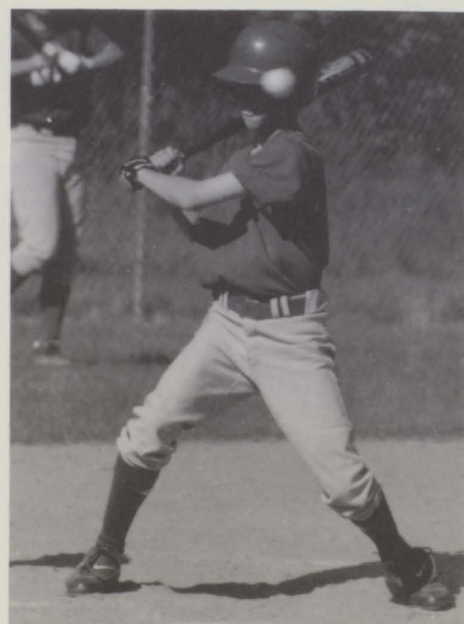

Providing a young spark for the Fisherman, freshman Nick Yaakola raises his RBI with this hit.

Utilizing his size and strength, sophomore Chris Wait guns on the runner at home.

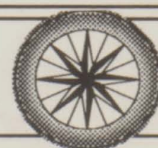

With a good eye and batters' patience, sophomore David Rothberg succeeds at the plate once again.

Season to build on Going out hard and taking an easy win in the 800 meters, Rick Henry charges over the finish line.

Juniors Katy Wentworth and Laura Johnson sprint to a 1-2 finish in the 100 meters.

Freshman Kia McClain launches the Javelin, practicing perfect form, and in the process, earning quite a few points towards her varsity letter.

Finishing the race, distance runners James Eubank and Phil Adams give it all they've got for the final 150 meters.

Coming to his final hurdle, Senior Clinton Oja uses his last ounce of strength to win the 100-meter highs.

Sophomore Jasper Devereaux leads the pack in the 1500 meters, helping the Fishermen to yet another meet win.

With a form all his own, Freshman Matt Van Osdol heaves the shot put. Although Matt was a first-year thrower, he will be one to look for in years to come.

Everyone knew that it was going to be a different kind of season with only seven returning seniors. Most likely, there wouldn't be a repeat as district champions. No one even really knew how competitive the team would be in the Cowapa League. But as Coach Carl Dominey pointed out, "It was a fun and exciting season. It let many people realize their goals and set new ones for next season."

As the season progresses, however, all expectations that had been set had been surpassed. The boys took a strong third at districts, sending three members to state. Kurt Loukkala competed in the shot and disk, along with fellow teammate Phil Finzer, and Rick Henry who competed in the 800 meters. Kurt came away from the meet state champion in the shot and second in the disk. Phil was fourth in the disk and Rick was 16th in the 800m.

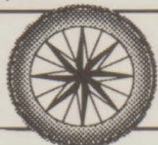

And while the girls did not have enough members to be very competitive, they had some large improvements and will a group to contend with next year.

State Champion!

"I was pretty confident that I would do well. I just wanted to throw better than I had ever before." This was Kurt Loukkala's mind set as he went into the state competition at Hayward field on May 23.

Well, it must of worked because at the end of the two day meet, Kurt walked away with the title of state champion in the shot put and was just one inch short from first in the discus as well. This is the first time in over fifty years that Astoria has had a champion in the shot put and as Kurt graduates this year, he will be remembered as one of the best track and field athletes Astoria has ever seen.

Kurt Loukkala stares in disbeliefment at the throwers from the other team who's attempts don't even come close to his.

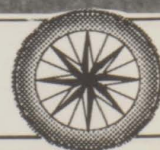

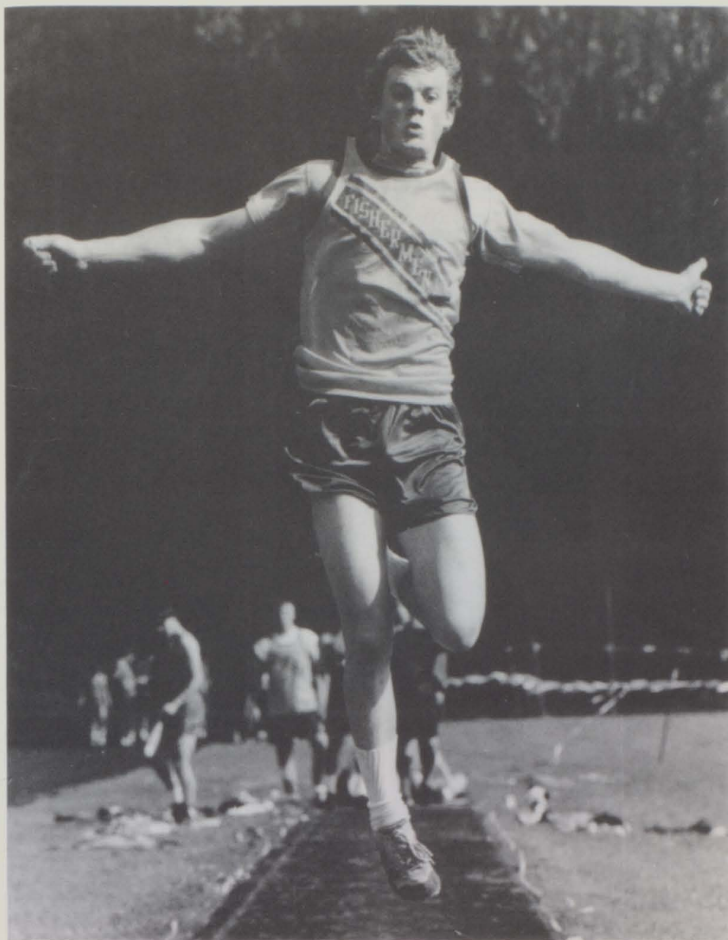

Sophmore Steve Arcenio gets off to a quick start, giving him an advantage over his opponents.

Abi Lane, Astoria's first female pole vaulter, propells herself over the 8ft bar.

Senior Erin Munro turns the last corner and heads down the straight stretch, easily winning the 800meter.

Teeing up at the State Challenge

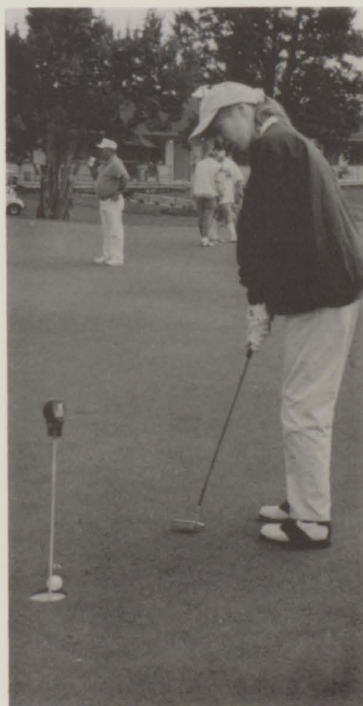

With a young team, and a new coach the girls golf team had a challenging season ahead of them. But by the time the District match rolled around they were prepared to put up their best effort. Recording a season low team score, the girls missed the league title by 3 strokes. All five girls made the All League team, with two in the top five. For the second year in a row they earned a trip to the State Tournament, where they took 9th place. With huge team improvements, and wild trips in the Suburban, everyone agreed it was a fun year!

Cowapa League Champions

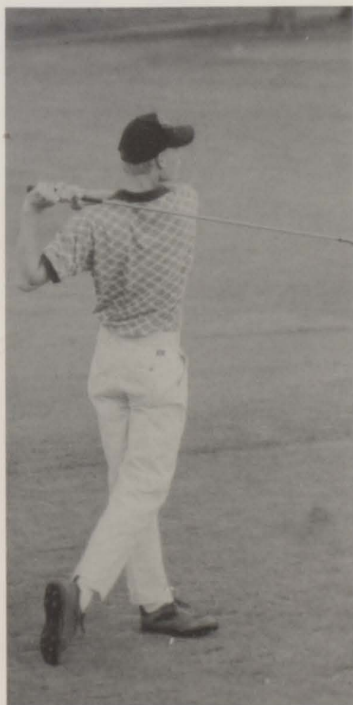

With many season wins, and low team scores the Astoria Boys Golf team was anxious to play at districts. After the first round at Gearhart the team was out of the lead by one stroke. At the second round they had home course advantage and blew the league away with a 24 stroke lead to earn the District Championship. Tryan Hartill came in first place over all. The Trip to Eagle Crest for the State Challenge was next. The boys played well and took 9th. place. Over all it was a winning season!

Hitting the putt with just the right speed, Tryan Hartill sinks a 20 footer.

Driving off the first tee at the State Challenge, Jerry Mizar hits another record breaking distance.

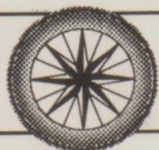

Chipping over the sand trap, Tryan Hartill sinks it in the cup.

Trying to see his ball through the sunshine, Jeremy Ahola watches it fly over the water.

Smacking his drive into the fairway, Tryan Hartill manages to avoid the rocks at Eagle Crest.

round here nothing looks the same

Astoria was once the salmon fishing capital of the world.

In season, high school kids were as much a part of the waterfront scene as the sealions are now.

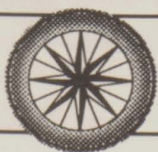

The search for a school mascot was about as easy as shooting fish in a barrel. Back in the days when the salmon ran strong past this lazy little town, the smell of fish lingered in the soft west wind.

For many, summer vacation was a trip to the docks for Astoria high school students. Fishing was not only a way of life for the families that lived here, but it was a tradition that was handed down from generation to generation.

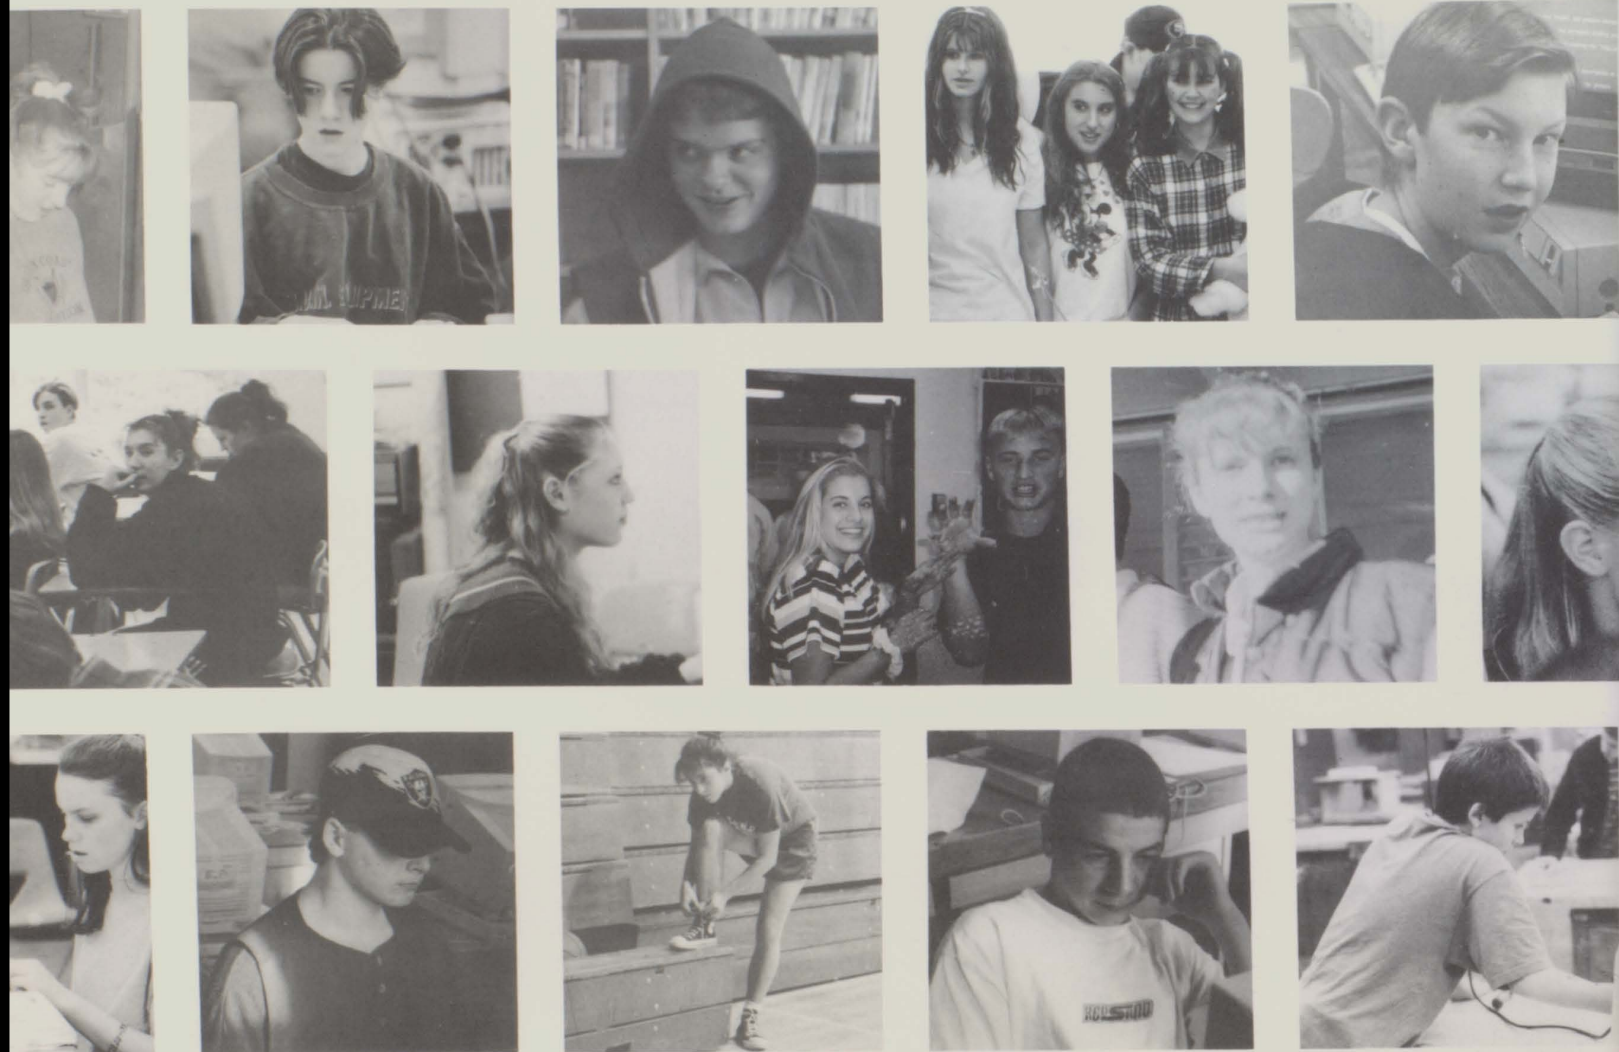

Today, the salmon are swimming towards the endangered species list and very few AHS students can make money from the river. The times, they are a changin' but the fishermen mascot will always be a reminder of the way it use to be.
